Poker Palace Gunman

Police detectives march Louis Koullapis, 70, from a police station in Gardena, Calif., yesterday after booking him on suspicion of attempted murder following the shooting up of three poker palaces. More than 30 persons were wounded. (AP Photofax)

Man, 70, Shoots Up PokerClubs; 30 Hurt

GARDENA, Calif. (AP) — Police say a retired machinist, out to "save a lot of innocents and good peoples," fired a small arsenal of guns into three poker parlors Tuesday, wounding more than 30 persons.

Officers later disarmed Louis Koullapis, 70, after, they said, he came at them with guns blazing in both hands. They booked him on suspicion of attempted murder.

Witnesses said the gunman cruised slowly by the three gaming emporiums just after 1 a.m., blazing away at them. They likened it to a battle scene, with wounded lying on floors and sidewalks. Poker players hid under tables and crouched behind potted palms.

It was the wildest — but not the first — shooting spree in this unusual community. Gardena is the only Los Angeles suburb with legalized draw and lowball poker parlors and for 20 years it has been torn by bitter factionalism over gambling.

After arresting Koullapis, police said they found three drafts of a letter to a television newscaster. The sheets, crumpled and torn, were in a wastebasket in the man's neat room.

"Tonite," one said, "I am sacrifising my life just to see if the clubs will be close forever. I am old and very sick man. Is nothing left for me in this world.

"What I am doing tonite, it would be done long time ago. But never too late. It could save a lot of innosents and good peoples.

"These gyp joints destroyed lots of homes. Thousands of divorces and good many thousands of children are without good homes.

"The crimes are increasing at least 100 per cent. Many young women became prostitute just to have money to play card."

Officers said the letters were addressed to a local television newscaster, Jerry Dunphy, whose office said it did not know if he had received such a letter.

Dudley Gray, attorney for the heavily peppered Rainbow Club, said Koullapis often ate there and sometimes gambled in past years, but was quoted two days ago by an employe as saying: "This year I am going to die and before I do I am going to take 20 or 30 people with me."

It was at the Rainbow — scene of a bomb blast in 1960 — that Tuesday's melee began. Officers said Koullapis drove up beside a large, curtained window and fired at least 16 shots into the crowded parlor, though he could not see the interior. Police said he alternated shots from a double-barreled shotgun, four automatic pistols and a revolver.

Some 250 patrons and employes, including a handful of women, first sat in stunned silence, then scrambled wildly for cover under the large tables.

Many persons, injured by flying glass refused medical aid, preferring anonymity. Of 28 victims treated at hospitals, four were in serious condition and one was termed extremely critical — Arthur Archibald, 73, of nearby Burbank, shot in the kidneys.

Police said Koullapis drove away from the Rainbow to the adjoining Monterey Club and fired a shot through its front window, injuring one person there, then sped on toward the Horseshoe Club, where he fired a final shot without effect.

Indonesia Bans U.N.

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI)— Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio ordered the director of United Nations activities in Indonesia Tuesday to close his office and end all U.N. projects in this country.

The action followed President Sukarno's announcement late last week that Indonesia was withdrawing from the United Nations.

Reactor Blast Sends Debris High Into Air

JACKASS FLATS, Nev. (AP) —A great cloud of dust and a fireball bright as the sun blossomed briefly on the desert Tuesday as scientists deliberately exploded a nuclear rocket engine to see what might happen in a launching accident.

Dr. Keith Boyer, directing the test for the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory, said a first look at radiation monitors indicated humans would have been completely safe a mile and a half away.

The spectacular blast came at 10:55 a.m. as scientists ran a Kiwi reactor up to full power, releasing in a split second a burst of energy millions of times the capacity of nearby Hoover Dam.

Huge Dust Cloud

The 12-foot-high reactor burst into tiny fragments in a flash of heat and light estimated at 8,000 to 9,000 degrees Fahrenheit, roughly the temperature of the surface of the sun.

Twinkling bits of radioactive debris shot several hundred feet in the air in a multicolored shower above a huge dust cloud. Telephone poles 50 feet away were blown into the air and set afire.

A white cloud of intense radiation rose from this and was blown harmlessly to the southwest.

An Atomic Energy Commission spokesman said the highest radiation in a populated area outside the test grounds was at Lathrop Wells, 11 miles from the blast.

15-Foot Fireball

As the cloud passed over Lathrop Wells, planes flew through it and recorded a rate of two milliroentgen per hour. The passage took 20 minutes so the actual dose at Lathrop Wells was estimated at less than one milliroentgen. A spokesman said a safe limit is 500 milliroentgens per year.

Dr. Boyer estimated the size of the fireball at the blast's center as 15 feet in diameter and said it was nothing like the explosion of a nuclear weapon.

Nuclear bombs are measured in thousands of tons of TNT. Boyer said Tuesday's blast was the equivalent of about 10 tons of TNT.

Kiwi is named after the flightless New Zealand bird.

Algeria Frees Two U.S. Pilots

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI) — Two U. S. Navy pilots forced down in Algeria by bad weather last week were released by Algerian officials Tuesday, diplomatic sources said.

The two had been held for a full week a "guests" of the Algerian sources said.

Lt. Cmdr. Gerald K. Loeb of Jacksonville, Fla., and Lt. (jg) Ronald H. Marron, of Peabody, Mass., landed their A1H single-seat fighter planes last Wednesday on a rough Algerian airstrip after bad weather prevented them from finding the aircraft carrier U.S.S. Saratoga.

Phone Operators Caught Tuning In On Pop Music

AMERSHAM, England (AP) — The supervisor at the local telephone exchange studied the row of operators manning a bank of switchboards.

They looked industrious enough — but the girls were tapping their feet in time.

The supervisor swept on Janet Corwe, 15. Under questioning, Janet admitted she had been listening to Gerry and the Pacemakers on a long distance line.

Hauled before the chief supervisor, Marie Dear, Janet said that by trunk-dialing a certain number in Hull the girls connected their switchboard with a number that plays pop records.

"Miss Dear was very angry, so I walked out," Janet said. "My sister, another operator, walked out in sympathy with me."

Said Janet's sister, Sue: "I think my sister was picked on. Actually there were eight girls all listening in to the pop music program. This record-playing service is very popular with the girls."

The sisters said the telephone operators had a code word for the pop-music.

"When one of us says, 'Aylesbury nine,' that means tune in," said Janet. Aylesburg is a city near smaller Amersham.

I. W. McCall, chief of the telephone system at Amersham, said he was shocked at what had been going on.

"Telephonist is not allowed to make even a local call without permission," he said. "I think their number is up."

Change In Republican Command Announced

Party Leader To Step Down First Of April

Goldwater Pledges Support Of Ohioan In Interest Of Unity

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Dean Burch will resign as Republican national chairman April 1 and Ohio GOP Chairman Ray C. Bliss has agreed to take over the job with the blessing of Barry Goldwater.

In an effort to avoid a party-splitting fight, this was announced here Tuesday at a conference attended by Goldwater, the party's 1964 presidential nominee; Burch, Bliss and William E. Miller, Goldwater's running mate.

Burch, 37, said he will submit his resignation at a meeting of the national committee in Chicago, Jan. 22-23. Bliss, 57, a 16-year veteran in the Ohio party post, said he has consented to become chairman if the national committee wants him.

Some Republican leaders promptly hailed the proposed switch as a party unifying measure.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said the change would mean Republican unity and GOP victories two years from now and that Bliss will be supported by all elements of the party.

Romney Hails Move

Gov. George Romney of Michigan, mentioned as a potential GOP presidential candidate in 1968 and one of those who wanted to see Burch ousted, said everyone concerned about a vigorous two-party system and a strengthened Republican party should be greatly encouraged.

Gov. Robert Smylie of Idaho, a staunch opponent of Burch continuing as chairman, said "we can now approach the 1966 campaign on a more unified basis."

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York called the development a wise move in the best interests of the party.

With a warm sun beating down on the same patio of Goldwater's hilltop home overlooking Phoenix where the former Arizona senator announced his candidacy for the presidency just a little over a year ago, Goldwater, Burch, Bliss and William E. Miller, the party's 1964 vice presidential nominee, all read prepared statements, then refused to submit to direct questioning.

Goldwater Praises Burch

Goldwater and Burch indicated that after extensive nose-counting they concluded Burch could win a vote of confidence from the national committee at the Chicago meeting but that the margin would be insufficient to constitute a clear mandate.

Following the Republicans' crushing defeat in the general election, many Republican leaders began crying for the scalp of Burch, whom Goldwater personally tabbed for the party chairmanship.

Goldwater termed Burch one of the most effective men holding that office in many years "but I know through having worked with many national chairmen that without having the full support of the committee he could not do his job nor himself justice."

Goldwater urged the selection of Bliss to replace Burch and pledged his support to him.

Bliss said under no circumstances would he lend his name or efforts to any move to force a change in the chairmanship.

"My own willingness now to serve as chairman after April 1, if that is the desire of the members of the national committee,

Arends Fights Ford's Choice For GOP Whip

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republicans cleared the ground Tuesday for another painful family squabble — a fight that involves the prestige of their new leader, Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan.

Ford endorsed Rep. Peter H. B. Frelinghuysen of New Jersey as his personal choice for his second in command, or House whip.

But the old whip, Rep. Leslie C. Arends of Illinois, is fighting to keep the job he has held for more than 21 years under two previous Republican House leaders.

The issue will be decided Thursday morning at a party conference by secret ballot.

Arends, 69, a genial politician of the old school, is banking on a large fund of personal friendship and respect he has built up among his colleagues over the years.

Frelinghuysen, 48, is a New Jersey blueblood with an Ivy League background who inherited the political bug from distinguished forebears. He has a reputation in the House as a scrappy, argumentative adversary against Democratic labor and education legislation.

Republican sources most closely involved in the battle rate the outcome as a tossup.

Ford's public endorsement of Frelinghuysen lays his own newly won position and prestige on the line.

If Frelinghuysen is defeated, it would be a stinging setback for the new leader, who narrowly defeated old-timer Charles A. Halleck of Indiana for the job just last week. That vote was 73 to 67.

Ford pledged to Arends his secret ballot chance to keep the job. Arends, who said "anything can happen in a secret ballot," in turn has pledged full loyalty to Ford if he should win.

China May Take Hand In S. Viet

TOKYO, Wednesday (UPI)— Communist China indicated today it might intervene in Viet Nam "if U. S. imperialism continues to prosecute its scheme for expanding its aggressive war in South Viet Nam."

The warning was contained in a government statement distributed by the New China News Agency. A dispatch from Peking, monitored in Tokyo, quoted the statement as saying:

"If U. S. imperialism continues to prosecute its scheme for expanding its aggressive war in South Viet Nam, and even internationalizes that war, the Chinese government and people will have to give further consideration to the duties incumbent upon them for the defense of peace in this area."

The statement said Communist China "strongly condemned U.S. imperialism" for allegedly ordering the South Korean government to take part in its "war of aggression in South Viet Nam."

LBJ Asks Sweeping School Aid Program

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson asked Congress Tuesday to enact a $1.5 billion new school aid program aimed primarily at bringing "better education to millions of disadvantaged youth who need it most."

Unveiling a sweeping program to aid children from nursery school age to the college level, he called education "the number one business of the American people." Nothing, he said in a special message to Congress, matters more to the future of the country because "freedom is fragile if citizens are ignorant."

Those who would benefit most if Congress enacts the program would be 5 million youngsters whose families earn $2,000 or less a year. Of the new funds, $1 billion would go to help such children get elementary and seconday schooling.

Over-all, there was this other emphasis:

"We must demand that our schools increase not only the quantity but the quality of America's education. For we recognize that nuclear age problems cannot be solved with horse-and-buggy learning. The three R's of our school system must be supported by the three T's — teachers who are superior, techniques of instruction that are modern, and thinking about education which places it first in all our plans and hopes."

Johnson's plan, including increased funds for existing programs, would boost authority for direct federal spending on education to $4.1 billion in the year starting July 1. This is more than double last year's.

The main parts of the President's call for a national goal of "full educational opportunity" were:

—Pre-School: $150 million added to the anti-poverty program to step up nursery school and kindergarten classes.

—Low-income school districts: $1 billion to finance special plans to improve grade and high school training of 5 million children from low income families.

—School books: $100 million to buy locally approved library and textbooks for children in public, private and parochial schools.

—Educational centers: $100 million to help build laboratories and other special types of classrooms.

—Colleges: $260 million for 140,000 federal scholarships for students who are gifted but can not afford college; federal guarantees for private loans to students; additional emphasis on aid to small colleges; and funds to build up the quality of college libraries.

The President steered clear of direct involvement in the church-state battle over whether general aid should be given to parochial and private as well as public schools. In doing so he took the risk of coming under fire from both sides.

The church - state battle has destroyed every plan for general school aid since 1960.

Speaker John W. McCormack a Roman Catholic and a leading advocate of federal aid to private and parochial schools, told reporters he supported Johnson's program. He said he favored strengthening all education but declared: "I would vote to strengthen public schools

Indos Charge Britain Plans 'Another Suez'

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — A Foreign Office spokesman charged Tuesday that Britain is preparing to attack Indonesia by creating "another Suez incident" in this part of the world.

In a statement, spokesman Ganis Harsono said the British military buildup in neighboring Malaysia "is unprecedented in peace time."

Harsono said Britain used Egypt's seizure of the Suez Canal as a pretext to attack the Egyptians in 1956 and such an action "will be repeated by Britain by using the Malaysia dispute as an excuse."

"In this respect Indonesia is on the alert," Harsono declared, "and Indonesia will not stand alone if attacked by Britain."

Harsono charged that Britain had deliberately spread rumors that Indonesia's main reason for withdrawing from the United Nations was to free it from all ties so as to begin a general attack on Malaysia.

Indonesia has said it will crush Malaysia this year, calling the federation of Malaya, Singapore, Sarawak and Sabah a ruse to continue British colonialism. All federation members formerly were British territories or colonies.

In Malaysia, Prime Minister Abdul Rahman said he hoped Indonesia "will come to its senses" during Ramadan, the current Moslem month of fasting, and call off its hostility toward a neighboring Islamic nation.

Rahman said on arrival in Alor Star, his home town, for a vacation that President Sukarno of Indonesia should realize the "dangerous game he is playing" by sending armed guerrillas against Malaysia.

Assault Charged In School Haircut

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A mother went to court accusing an assistant school principal of assaulting her 15-year-old son with hair clippers and cutting his hair "to the scalp."

On complaint from Mrs. E. E. Harper, Justice of the Peace Dorcas Drake set a public hearing for Wednesday.

The County Board of Trustees held a hearing, but it was closed at the request of the assistant school principal, Siegfried Mark.

Connor Wins Senate Group Endorsement

WASHINGTON (AP) — John T. Connor's nomination as secretary of commerce won unanimous approval Tuesday of the Senate Commerce Committee after he pledged to "lean over backward" to avoid any personal conflicts of interest.

The endorsement was rushed to the Senate by the committee chairman, Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., in hope of confirmation this week. President Johnson is reported eager for his first Cabinet appointee to be sworn into the $35,000-a-year post being vacated by Luther H. Hodges.

The 50-year-old New Jersey drug official faced no hostile questions in the public hearing and Magnuson said the vote behind closed doors was without a word of opposition. Connor said "I hope to be sworn in next week and be ready to go."

The committee was given a detailed report on Connor's financial holdings, mostly 30,182 shares of stock in the big drug manufacturing firm of Merck & Co., from which he is resigning as president.

This stock, quoted at about $52 a share, will be placed in trust with the Morgan Guaranty Trust Ro. of New York City, Connor said.

He said the trustee would make out and submit his personal income tax reports so he would not learn the details of his income sources.

A bloc of 13,032 shares of Merck stock that Connor bought under the company's option plan on Dec. 23 will not be transferred to the trust fund until next July 15. He explained that this will be placed in custody of Morgan Guaranty in his name "in order that I may satisfy the requirements of the tax law that shares purchased under options not be transferred within six months of the date of purchase."

Seamen Back Dockers; Two Liners Marooned

NEW YORK (AP)—Two big luxury liners were marooned Tuesday as seamen lent support to a strike of 60,000 East and Gulf Coast longshoremen. Leaders of organized labor, however, sought to halt the walkout by means of a once-rejected peace pact.

The federal government hinted, meanwhile, that a long and costly tieup could bring compulsory arbitration to the shipping industry.

The United States line canceled a scheduled Thursday sailing to Europe of its flagship, the United States, stranding 800 passengers in New York. The move was prompted, the announcement said, by indications that union crewmen aboard the vessel would refuse to cross picket lines of the striking AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association.

The United States became the first of the big luxury liners to be marooned in a two-day strike that has tied up some 200 ships from Maine to Texas. The cost of the longshoremen's strike to the nation's economy was estimated at more then $20 million a day.

Later, the Moore-McCormack Line canceled Wednesday's sailing of the liner Argentina on an eight-day Caribbean cruise.

The longshore union has ordered a new vote on a proposed dock contract, which New York longshoremen rejected last Friday by about 900 votes. No date for the reballotting was set.

Water Traps Three In Cavern 56 Hours

Students Walk Out Of W. Va. Cave

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP) — Three Virginia Tech students and a fellow "caver" from Baltimore calmly caught up on sleep in an underground room when they found rising waters had trapped them in a sprawling West Virginia cavern.

"We just put up a measuring stick upstream to observe the fall of the water," said Ed Bauer, 22, of Morristown, N.J. "And then we waited."

Bauer and his friends spent 56 chilled and soggy hours underground before making their own escape past the flooded section to emerge at 1:30 a.m. Tuesday.

They had entered the cave, which is 20 miles north of Lewisburg, and some three miles west of U.S. 219, Saturday afternoon.

The other Tech students were R. E. Whittemore, 22, of Norfolk, and Dixon Hoyle, 19, of Oak Wood, Md. Leading the expedition was 25-year-old Lew Bicking of Baltimore, a graduate student in biophysics at Johns Hopkins and a veteran explorer of the cave.

"After we put up the stick, we slept, then built a fire and slept some more in snatches of an hour or so," said Whittemore.

Outside of fatigue — Hoyle slept through the day Tuesday—the Tech students looked little worse for the wear of sleeping on a sandy, wet floor where the temperature was 54 degrees.

During the 45 hours they were trapped, they had no food and only a pint of water. The cave water was unfit for drinking, they said.

"It's hard for you to realize how cold it was in there," Bauer said. "It just takes everything out of you."

If they were bothered about anything, it was why four carloads of fellow "VPI Cave Club" members and a rescue party, West Virginia State Police and news media were so concerned.

"We didn't take it quite as seriously as the people on the surface did," Whittemore said. "Why, this one newspaper said we were lost for three days. This burned me up. I've never been lost in a cave."

It was the Tech students' first visit to the cave known as the "Staircase - Snedeker" system after two of the four entrances. Normally, Tech cavers do their underground exploring in Southwest Virginia, mostly in Tazewell, Russell, Scott and Lee counties. But this time they wanted to help Bicking map the cave in hopes a surface survey would lead them to passages connecting with another large cave in the area.

U.S. Diplomat's Son Missing In Australia

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — A U.S. diplomat's son who wants to stay in Australia and become a cowboy was missing as his parents prepared to depart for Washington.

He is Stephen Conrad Watson, 16, son of Albert S. Watson, first secretary of the U.S. Embassy who with his wife and family are due to leave Australia Thursday after completing a tour of duty here.

The boy has been missing since late Monday.

A friend who saw Stephen Monday told police Stephen wanted to become a cowboy.

is in answer to Sen. Goldwater's request that I do so and his assurance that I would have his full support in building a strong organization capable of winning Republican victories," Bliss said.

Burch said that on the basis of a just-completed comprehensive survey of the GOP National Committee he has no doubt he could win support to stay on as chairman from a majority of the committee.

But he added: "Clearly, unity cannot be achieved by forcing a vote in Chicago. Even if I won under those circumstances neither I nor those who opposed my chairmanship would be comfortable — and my effectiveness would be impaired."

Father Of New Quads Reported To Be 'In Shock'

KENOSHA, Wis. (AP) — "They called me up and told me to come to the hospital," said Robin Graff, 24, "but to drive carefully."

And well they might. Shortly afterward Graff's young wife, Joyce, gave birth to quadruplets — the first in Wisconsin in more than 100 years and only the second set in the states' history.

The babies and their mother, Dr. Edwin Barnes reported Tuesday, "are fine."

The father, according to his mother, Anna Graff of Superior, Wis., is "in shock" even though the quads arrival was expected.

"He was in shock," contended the elder Mrs. Graff in the house trailer where the young family — up to now — has lived. "He kept saying he was cold, but it was really hot in here. I knew then he was in shock."

"We dropped by the doctor's office last month," said Graff, who works for a roofing firm across the nearby state line in Waukegan, Ill., "and Joyce went in after the X-rays. They told her she'd better sit down, but she said she could take the news standing up.

"When she told me, I just about went through the floor."

Births of the two boys and two girls, each weighing 3½ pounds or more despite an arrival some six weeks early, gave the Graffs six new babies in less than a year. Last Jan. 16 Joyce gave birth to twins. Married four years, the couple also has a 3-year-old son, Martin.

The family has been living in a 40-foot trailer, and using a small foreign car for transportation. Young Mrs. Graff said that offers for new housing, education of the youngsters and other necessities were starting to come in, and that she'd received a telegram of congratulations from Wisconsin Gov. Warren P. Knowles, inviting the family to the state capital for a visit.

if legislation can't be obtained for private schools."

Reaction from other Democratic leaders also was favorable.

The National Education Association, the nation's largest teachers' organization, praised Johnson for making "one of the strongest commitments to meeting the urgent needs of the public schools ever to come from the While House."

The whole program was aimed at what the U.S. Office of Education regards as the two most critical areas of need in American education — elementary schools in poor areas, and the difficulty young people from low — and even middle — income families have in paying for college.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Interior Committee Tuesday unanimously approved the nomination of John A. Carver Jr. as under secretary of the interior.

Student Beards Raise University Controversy

ROCHESTER, Mich. (AP) — There's something of a fight at Oakland University over whether student beards are unsightly and unsanitary or a reflection of a sense of freedom.

Dean Herbert Stoutenburg said last fall he got complaints from students about beards worn by student workers in the cafeterias at this southeastern Michigan school.

"They didn't like to look at the beards while they were eating," Stoutenburg said, "and we also noticed that beards and sloppiness in dress sometimes go together."

So in December he said all student employes under his direction must shave the beards.

However, some faculty members, including the chairman of the philosophy department, protested and the ban was rescinded.

James C. Haden, philosophy department chairman and a man with a beard himself, said, "Students feel a sense of freedom when they come to college and we endanger this when we proscribe things too narrowly. Sometimes growing a beard is a reflection of this sense of freedom.

However, Stoutenburg said he still felt that beards were out of place in the Student Union building.

He then ordered that only students working in the Oakland center's two cafeterias, grill, information center and bookstore had to defoliate.

Haden said he had no real objection to making the food service employes shave, "if only for sanitary reasons," but he said he didn't think a bookstore clerk needed to have a smooth chin.

William Connellan, the editor of the Oakland Observer, the student newspaper, protested editorially. "A couple of fellows are growing beards to protest," he said, "but I don't know if the movement will grow — or if the beards will either."

Nine Accused In Irish Blast Battle Police

TRAMORE, Ireland (AP) — Doors were ripped from hinges in a courtroom melee Tuesday when nine men appeared to face charges of fomenting disorder during Princess Margaret's visit last week.

Defendants slugged policemen. Policemen replied with some slugging of their own. Spectators joined in on behalf of the defendants. That was when the doors were torn from their hinges.

Above the thud of fists and the scuffling of feet were loud cries of "This is British imperialism!" and "We'll guarantee there'll be no more royal visits!"

The policemen prevailed in the end by sheer force of numbers, since they were guarding the building both inside and out.

They handcuffed the nine defendants, dragged them outside into the patrol car, and returned them to prison until the hearing is resumed Jan. 19.

Spectators jeered and shouted at the police — "Cutthroats!" and "You're worse than the Black and Tans!"

The Black and Tans were British security forces during the Irish rebellion of three decades ago.

The nine men were arrested by police after an explosion and the sabotage of electrical power lines which plunged Abbeyleix Castle into darkness last week while Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, were visiting there with Snowdon's sister, Countess de Vesci.

Vandals Damage Art Masterpieces

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Vandals damaged 15 masterpieces in the famous Florence Uffizi Gallery on Tuesday, and museum officials said their value could exceed $1.6 million.

Gallery Supt. Dr. Luisa Beccherucci said the vandals "fortunately did not touch any of the greatest masterpieces in the gallery." These include works by Michelangelo and Raphael.

Among the damaged masterpieces were triptychs by the 14th century artists Pietro Lorenzetti and Bernardo Daddi.

VA Will Close 14 Hospitals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Veterans Administration (VA) will close 14 of its 170 hospitals and 17 of its regional offices by June 30 to save an estimated $25 million a year, it was learned Tuesday.

The VA informed members of Congress of its plan to shut down hospitals with low patient demand, difficult staffing problems or outmoded structures. It said employes will be offered jobs elsewhere.

Functions of regional offices to be closed with be shifted to the nearest available VA offices.

No real effort was expected in the House Veterans Committee to block the move, although it was certain to arouse protests from individual congressmen whose states stand to lose one or more VA facilities.

The Veterans Administration long has anticipated the time when some of its hospitals no longer would be needed, and now is trying to concentrate medical care in big city areas close to teaching hospitals and medical schools.

Sen. Thurmond Unlikely To Get GOP Seniority

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indications grew Tuesday that Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina will not be given exactly the committee assignments or seniority he is seeking as a new Republican.

The problem was discussed at sessions of the Conference of All Republican Senators and of the Committee on Committees which handles legislative committee assignments for Republicans.

No final decision was taken by the Committee on Committees, but several sources said it appears likely that:

1. Thurmond will be left on only one of the two choice committees on which he served as a Democrat — Armed Services and Commerce. He had asked to stay on both.

2. The South Carolinian will not be given the seniority he sought. He had asked that he be given credit on the Republican side for his years of service on the committees as a Democrat.

Burch Will Return To Law Firm Job

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Dean Burch, who said Tuesday he will resign April 1 as chairman of the Republican National Committee, can have his old job back.

Burch was a partner in the law firm of Dunseath, Stubbs and Burch before becoming the party chairman. Burch said Tuesday he would return to the law firm.

Record Cuban Budget

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cuba's 1965 national budget is the largest in the nation's history, totaling 2,385,400 pesos, Havana Radio reported Tuesday. A peso officially is pegged at a dollar, but is worth much less on the international market.

Rotary President, Back From India, Tells Of Clubs' Pilot Project There

BALTIMORE (AP) — The president of Rotary International, who returned Jan. 1 from a visit to India and Pakistan, cited a pilot project there Tuesday as what can be done by local Rotary clubs.

The president, Charles W. Pettengill, Greenwich, Conn., lawyer, said a six-room brick building has been built in Gorakhpur, India, through the efforts of the Rotary club there, Pettengill's Greenwich club and one in Canada.

Each of the three clubs contributed $500 and the government in India $800, he said, to provide a two-room school, a dispensary with a surgeon, a place where women may learn handicrafts and an outdoor play area for children.

"Two years ago, no boys were going to school there," he said. "Now, we have 70 children in school."

Pettengill, who met informally with newsmen, was in Baltimore to discuss Rotary's International Assembly with Dr. Theodore Wilson of Baltimore, past president of Rotary International and moderator for the assembly scheduled May 20-28 at Lake Placid, N.Y. At the assembly, new district governors of Rotary International are briefed on the coming year's activities. . .

"We have problems of languages," said Pettengill, noting there are 11,800 Rotary clubs around the world.

Many Middle Eastern Moslems consider the camera an "evil eye" and tourists have been advised by American officials to ask permission before taking photographs.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Clarence Redin, 34, of Baltimore was convicted Tuesday helping an Anne Arundel County jail fugitive get out of the state.

U.S. District Judge Edward S. Northrop postponed sentencing.

Redin was charged with housing Stanley W. Bissett after escaping from Annapolis jail in March, 1963, and with persuading a motorist on Route 40 to drive the fugitive to West Virginia.

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Gov. Tawes said Tuesday he would give "serious consideration" to a request that the state provide $1 million toward construction of a proposed $4 million addition to Walters Art Gallery in Baltimore.

The governor discussed the plans for more than an hour with Baltimore Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin and with representatives of the art gallery.

He said he was "pleased to hear of the plans for expansion" and that he was "sympathetic to the cultural contribution" the gallery makes to Baltimore.

McKeldin said that the city "proposes to make a contribution of $1 million."

The remaining $2 million would be raised from private sources.

Maryland Sales Tax Take Below Estimate

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Maryland sales tax collections dropped below the estimate in December, but still topped the previous year's figure by 7.4 per cent.

State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said the receipts in December totaled $9,652,114, some $153,656 short of the revenue estimates for the month. However, collections for the fiscal year which began July 1 are still $73,118 ahead of the estimate, Goldstein said.

The cigarette tax brought in $2,003,265 during December, compared with $1,945,886 in Dec. 1963.

Accountant Indicted On Income Tax Count

BALTIMORE (AP)—Herman L. Westerman, 54, of Silver Spring and an accountant for the U.S. Civil Service Commission, was indicted Tuesday on charges of claiming false income tax deductions.

The government charged that Westerman claimed $24,000 in deductions when he was entitled to only about half that much on his returns for 1958 through 1961.

Woman's Body Discovered In Quarry

READING, Pa., (UPI) —The body of Mrs. Pearl M. Luckenbill, 45, of nearby South Temple, was found at the bottom of a 65-foot-deep quarry Tuesday after she failed to report for work.

Mrs. Luckenbill's locked car was found nearby. Police said the keys were inside the auto.

Authorities said there were no witnesses to the tragedy but believed the woman may have plunged into the quarry, operated by the Berks Products Corp.

The victim and her husband worked at the Carpenter Steel Co. Her husband and co-workers started a search for her when she failed to report for her job in the office.

They found the locked car along the Allentown Pike, not far from South Temple, and footsteps in the snow to about four feet from the quarry's edge.

The woman was pronounced dead at Community General Hospital where an autopsy was scheduled.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR READERS: Well, I've done it again. Started a real donneybrook.

I've had complaints from science writers, beefs from physicians, bouquets from the geneticists, questions from non-professionals.

And I've heard from cousins by the dozens . . . Some damning me, others praising me.

It all started when I advised first cousins who had fallen in love to go ahead and marry. I said, "It is not true that first cousins produce half-witted children. Inheritable physical defects are likely to show up in an offspring when first cousins marry. However normally healthy people need have no fears."

After reading the excellent material sent by Dr. Eric Reiss, chairman of the division of medicine at Michael Reese Hospital and Medical Center in Chicago (he's agin' such marriages), I was inclined to send a telegram to those first cousins and tell them not even to look at each other. His letter claimed that among children born to first cousin marriages the incidence of amaurotic idiocy, (mental deficiency associated with impaired vision or blindness), for example, is about 15%.

Dr. James Crow, Professor of Medical Genetics and acting dean of the medical school of the University of Wisconsin wrote an equally convincing letter. He claims first-cousin marriages are not particularly hazardous.

"The girl next door, who is no relation whatever, could have deleterious recessive genes," wrote Dr. Crow. "The chance for abnormal offspring when first cousins marry increases roughly from 2% to 3%—hardly worth worrying about."

And then there is the other side again:

Dr. Samuel P. Bessman, Professor of Pediatric Research and Associate Professor of Biochemistry at the University of Maryland in Baltimore who wrote, "Please accept one bouquet of asafoetida for your cow-eyed advice to the man contemplating marriage to a first cousin. Love does not conquer genetics, as Egyptian royalty, the Hawaiians, the Hapsburgs can attest. The likelihood that a first-cousin marriage will reveal genetic traits present in a family is very great."

A reader from Benton Harbor, Michigan wrote, "I married my first cousin and we have six bright, healthy children. My brother married a girl he met in Europe, during the war. They have four of the nuttiest kids I ever saw."

A geneticist from Washington, D. C. wrote, "If cousins possess especially desirable traits—traits worth reproducing—a marriage between these two exceptional people would be desirable. This theory is basic in reproducing thoroughbred horses."

As if this wasn't enough I also heard from lawyers. In my advice to the first cousins I informed them that not all states permit first cousins to marry, so I suggested that if their state does not permit it, they should go to a state that does.

A Chicago attorney wrote, "Your advice suggests that the first cousins can go to another state, marry, and return to their home state and live happily ever after. Well, this is not the case. Their marriage could be considered null and void—in Illinois, for instance."

So—my advice to first cousins who are in love and want to marry is this: Look up a couple of doctors and a couple of lawyers, listen to them all, and then determine whose advice you are going to take.

THE BETTING BILLY GOAT: You lose on both counts. He is my first and only husband and he is not a physician.

Send the $10 to CARE, 660 First Avenue, New York. Your $10 will buy 270 pounds of food—the best bargain in humanitarianism that I know of.

Pony Club Plans Introductory Meeting

Plans to hold an introductory meeting for all interested young people, were formulated at the first committee meeting of 1965 of the Cumberland Pony Club, held Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Steiding, Fayette Street.

The meeting is to be held January 22, at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Buford Saville, 520 Caroline Street. Interested children, whether they ride English or western, or own horses, and their parents are invited to attend.

A spring horse show, also was discussed. It is to be held in May and will be for the benefit of the club.

The Cumberland Pony Club is a member club of the United States Pony Club. The United States Pony Club is a national organization for young people between the ages of seven and 21, whose purpose is to promote horsemanship through riding ability and knowledge of the care of horses and ponies, and is not a social organization. The local club is administered by the District Commissioners with the assistance of the committee members whose duty is to aid in the planning of the program for the young people.

Members present were Mrs. Ann Mallick, William Joyce, Mr. Saville, Edwin Alexander, William Harold Moran, and Robert Collins. Also present was Mrs. William Joyce, secretary and Mrs. Fred Steiding and Mrs. Robert Nierman, joint district commissioners. Guests present were Mrs. Edwin Alexander and Mrs. William Harold Moran.

MAKING A VICTORIAN GARDEN — Members of the decorating committee for the ninth annual Snow Ball were busy yesterday at the Cumberland Country Club preparing for the formal dance which will be held Saturday at the club. Sponsored by the Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, it will carry out the Victorian Garden theme this year. A "Patron's Hour" in the form of an open house will be held from 6 until 8 o'clock. Dancing with music by Brad Hunt's Orchestra, Pittsburgh, will be from 10 until 2 o'clock. Proceeds from this year's ball will be used to furnish a play room in the new pediatrics department and to replace old furniture in the student nurses' home. Left to right are Mrs. Raymond Lapp, Jr., auxiliary president; Mrs. James B. Reinhart and Mrs. Robert Wilkins. Mrs. Joseph Pellerzi is general chairman.

Twiggtown Club Has Reports

Announcements were made and reports were given at the meeting of the Twiggtown Homemakers Club, held Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Mason Glover, Martin's Mountain. It opened with the collect and hymn, "From Glory unto Glory." Mrs. Bernard Baker said the hymn was written by Frances Ridely Havergal, daughter of a minister at Astley, Worcesshir, England, who spent most of her time in church work, giving Bible readings, teaching Sunday school and paarticipating in the women's organizations of the church. She also was a singer of popular music and is considered one of the world's great composers and writer of hymns, excelling in music as a composer and pianist. She also was a great linguist, including Latin and Greek.

Mrs. Walter Bender presided. Roll call was answered with New Year thoughts, including, be on time and attend meetings regularly; be more tolerant of other persons point of view; more thoughtful of others, and visit shutins more often; cut out nonessentials to make more time for the essentials of life; do better cooking for good health.

A report was given by Mrs. Robert Appel of the meeting at the home of Mrs. Bender to prepare eight baskets for the shutins. She said they also made ten pounds of candy for the baskets. Mrs. Marvin Hinkle donated apples and Mrs. George Nelson made and donated the baskets. Mrs. Guy Stonestreet delivered the baskets and told of the appreciation of the recipients.

Reporting on a workshop of small electrical appliances, Mrs. Perrin Rinker explained it was held at the Potomac Edison home service department. Sixty different appliances are in use in the home. One of the homemakers unanimously agreed they could least do without was the iron. Since the trend is to informal living, she told how portable appliances have become popular for preparation and serving anywhere. Among the most favored were the mixer, cooker frier, fry pan, blender and saucepan. Mrs. Rinker distributed a list for various uses of an appliance. She also urged when buying to choose a good name, strong motor and one easy to use and clean. In order to cut down fat in the diet, she urged homemakers to look for appliances lined with teflan, which also is "stick resistant."

A letter from Miss Mary Wise was read by Mrs. Charles Frost. It concerned the homemaker as a consumer; and announced a demonstration on knitwear to be held soon. She also told of her vacation trip through Michigan, Minnesota and Texas, and her husband finding crystal rock specimens near Waco, Texas, for his collection from every area of the United States.

The gift bought by the club for Mrs. I. C. Drake was exhibited by Mrs. Bernard Baker. Mrs. Drake, a charter member and active in club work, recently moved to 126 South Allegany Street, though retaining membership in the Twiggtown club.

Mrs. Glover distributed house plant cuttings. Mrs. Baker won the prize donated by Mrs. Frost. Vicki Baker and Mrs. Stonestreet assisted the hostess in serving refreshments.

Other members present were Mrs. Stanley Bennett, Mrs. Edith Bowman and Mrs. Helen Wilson. Guests were Bernard Baker, Guy Stonestreet, Stanley Bennett and Mason Glover.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Rinker, Williams Road.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Fade Out, Fade In—With Makeup

Any good cameraman or still photographer knows the magic of lighting. All the subtle shades of lighting, from highlight to shadow, color the artist's palette from which his expert's eye can conceive a rare portrait from what might otherwise be a mere picture. To him, lines and contours are meant to be used to etch in character and expression; what he wants to see, he emphasizes with light, just as he subdues what he doesn't want to see.

Any woman, whether or not she understands the intricacies of light values, knows and treasures the effect of candlelight. Yet the same woman will employ a housepainter's technique in applying both daytime and evening makeup without exploring ways to achieve the flattery of indirect lighting with makeup alone.

It can be done . . .

. . . with LIGHTENER, stick or cream, used under foundation wherever depressed areas on the face make you look gaunt. Lighten the deep-set expression lines, draw lightener around the curve of each nostril, highlight the shadows under the eyes, the cheek hollows that look sunken. Lightener softens shadows, rounds out sharply-contrasting contours. Used around the eyes, it can persuade deep-set eyes to emerge and seem brighter.

. . . or with SHADOW, the brown shadow called carnelian, easy to spread and blend over foundation wherever there are distracting and aging pouches and puffy areas. Carnelian applied just under the chin reduces telltale fullness. It can also erase the paleness left around eyes after prolonged wearing of eye glasses or sun specs.

West found himself backed into a corner by declarer—in defending against South's four heart contract. At the crucial moment, however, he uncovered the only possible means of escape.

West was reluctant to make an aggressive lead into the strong hand, and therefore adopted a neutral course by opening the jack of hearts. South pulled trumps in two rounds.

Declarer's prospects appeared to be quite dim; however, the bidding provided some enlightening clews—West had failed to lead a diamond despite East's rebid of that suit. There was a strong inference therefore that he was void in diamonds. Furthermore his overcalls clearly marked him with the bulk of the missing strength in spades and clubs. South decided there was a good chance to put his opponent to work for him.

At trick four, declarer led the king of clubs — saddling West with the lead. He cashed the queen of clubs and, when everyone followed, all the cards in that suit were accounted for. It was not safe to lead another club, for that would not only provide declarer with access to the dummy, but give him a sluff as well—therefore, the exit must be a spade.

West realized that, if South had both the ace and queen of spades, it didn't matter which card he led. If East had the queen, however, West must defend very carefully to avoid another endplay—which might prove fatal.

West chose as his return—the king of spades! Declarer played the ace and exited with a spade in the expectation that West would go back in the lead with the queen. East turned up with that card however, and cashed the setting trick with the ace of diamonds.

West's foresight is clearly revealed when we examine the consequences of a small spade lead. The ten is played from dummy and East covers with the queen to force out the ace. South now merely returns a spade and West is in once more—but this time he has no safe exit. His forced return puts dummy in, and North's established jack of spades and jack of clubs provide a parking place for declarer's diamonds.

Guarantee Against China Atom Blackmail Weighed

LONDON (UPI) — Britain is consulting the United States on the possibility of offering a joint guarantee to non-nuclear Asian nations against Chinese Communist nuclear blackmail, diplomatic sources said Monday.

The sources understood the Soviet Union also may be approached to join in such assurances.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson is expected to discuss the issue with President Johnson during his trip to Washington, probably early next month. Wilson has made it known he regards this as one of the most urgent issues on the 1965 international agenda.

Britons said the problem was spotlighted by Peking's recent explosion of a nuclear device which altered the political and military situation in the entire Far East.

Any joint assurance would be given to all non-nuclear powers in Asia but it would apply specifically to India which considered itself threatened most. Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri raised the question during a recent visit to London but made no formal request.

Diplomatic sources said any effective guarantee against nuclear attack should be given jointly by the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union to make it effective.

However, it was considered doubtful at this stage whether the Soviet would join in a guarantee, for instance, to India because it would tend to underline an anti-Chinese policy.

Moscow currently seeks a truce in the Sino-Soviet conflict. If the Soviet were to join the United States and Britain in a guarantee to India — or to any other power in Asia it would be vulnerable to a charge of ganging up with the "imperialists."

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nature called the colors when the nation's trend - setting designers worked on spring clothes.

The colors range from the many hues in a flower garden to the pure tones of a rainbow. In between are the many splendored reds and pinks found in a spectacular sunrise or sunset.

The call to the colors was evident during the 10 days of fashion for the nation's fashion press corps in New York — an event ending Tuesday and sponsored by the New York Couture Group and the American Designer Showings.

Flavored colors, explained in the New York Couture Group's fabric report, include the following:

—Tender greens, ranging from the ethereal first sprouts to the freshness of green grass.

—Blossom whites, featuring a variety of whites from the full blooming flower to all the subtle nuances seen in their hearts and buds.

—The blues, mostly delphinium blues, ranging from pale sky blue to deep aqua tones.

—Marigold following the gamut from pale yellow to the deepest, sharpest orange.

— Sweet pea shades going from the faintest pink to delicate mauves and lilac.

Highlights of the designer collections:

B. H. Wragge made news with a crocodile tears dress. The tears appeared as cutouts in a white linen tunic worn over a mardi gras silk sheath. A "happiness is a warm poppy" print speaks for itself. The mardi gras print was a candy-striped affair.

Mollie Parnis liked the look of bare black dresses, and of veiled black dresses over nude. She called them "danger dresses." A collection of costumes called "public lives" was composed of dresses and coats, some in cravat silk.

Geoffrey Beene, in his first collection after receiving the Coty Award, featured a crisp and sharply tailored look for daytime and a contrastingly soft one for evening. Coats and jackets varied in length, cut and fit.

Luis Estevez called his collection "Romantica." It included wide-legged silk hostess pajamas which occasionally bared most of the midriff. Dresses had flowing lines and soft colors.

Rudi Gernreich, father of the topless bathing suit, introduced swimsuits for children. Featuring portholes and keyholes, the suits were designed for regal knitwear. Jump suits, once confined to the gym were favored by Gernreich for swimming and surfing. These were sleeveless and had jamaica-length legs.

Gernreich also showed three new models of his "no bra." Designed for Exquisiteform, the bras were called — no side, no back, and no front. The no bra is two sheer bust cups, cantilevered by a continuum of stretch tapes strategically placed. The no back one is bare to the waist in back and held in place with a narrow contour stretch waistband. And the no front bra just seems to have no front. The name is linked to the fact that the transparent tricot bra cups are literally half cups.

It's all part of Gernreich's campaign to liberate women from rigid corseting.

Aid For Amish Battle Asked In Education

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) —Help for the Amish of Hillsdale County in their battle with state educational authorities was asked here Monday at a meeting of city commissioners with area legislators.

The problem was put forth as the commission and legislators met principally to discuss other matters.

Mrs. Evangeline Lamberts, who does not seek re-election to her 2nd Ward commission post, asked the lawmakers to "consider helping these Amish people."

"It just seems to me that there is something rather vital at stake here — the issue really is whether the people in this country have a right to be different," she said.

Mrs. Lamberts noted that Lynn M. Bartlett, state superintendent of public instruction, has sympathized with the Amish community but says he is bound by law to require them to meet state educational demands.

The state entered the dispute over the right of a 20-year-old girl with an eight-grade education to teach more than 20 Amish children in a one - room schoolhouse at Camden.

The Amish say she is qualified although she has no state teaching certificate.

Mrs. Lamberts held that the type of schooling the sect wants for its children "is a matter of concern only to themselves."

She added that the Amish, an agricultural people, are not a burden on anyone and apparently juvenile delinquency in their culture is non-existent. She said possibly the laws could be made more flexible to allow the Amish more autonomy.

U.S. Imports Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U. S. imports rose about 10 per cent in November, the Commerce Department said Tuesday. It said the unusually large increase may have resulted from fear of a dock strike.

The value of November imports when adjusted for seasonal factors was set a $1.7 billion compared to $1.6 billion in October.

Mozambique has the highest illiteracy rate anywhere in the world with 99 per cent of all age groups of its people being unable even to read.

Gemini Capsule Undergoes Tests

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) —U.S. scientists and astronauts will put a two-seat Gemini space capsule through a series of final checks this week to prepare it for a searing rocket ride Jan. 19.

The shot, already 1½ years behind schedule, will attempt to send the unamanned capsule 2,150 miles across the Atlantic Ocean from Cape Kennedy, Fla.

At least eight astronauts and trainees — Virgil (Gus) Grissom, John Young, Walter Schirra, Thomas Stafford, Neil Armstrong, Eugene Cernan, Donald (Deke) Slayton and Gordon Cooper — are expected to attend the final checkout sessions and the launching.

Grissom and Young have a special interest. The shot, designed to test the capsule's reentry systems and recovery techniques, must be successful if the two are to keep alive their hopes of riding a similar craft three times around earth by May.

America's last manned voyage into space was the 22.9-orbit voyage of astronaut Cooper on May 15-16, 1963.

Federal space agency officials said a major failure next week could set the Gemini program back another four to five months.

Stamp Club Will Hear Talk By Postal Official

William H. Beacham of the Washington Regional Post Office will speak before the Tri-State Stamp Club Thursday at 8 p.m. in Central YMCA.

William Orndorff, Cumberland postmaster, will introduce Mr. Beacham who will speak on the ZIP code plan and other postal operations.

Mr. Beacham first entered the employment of the Post Office Department in 1949 as a letter carrier in Baltimore.

After various promotions he was assigned in January 1963 to serve on the Bureau of Operations Committee for the ZIP Code program.

He served as ZIP Code coordinator for the Washington Region until early 1964. He is now detailed to the Local Service Division of the regional office to assist in government participation in the NIMS (National Improvement of Mail Systems) Concept and to aid in implementing the new "pool case" parcel post program.

Kurt Erhman of Cumberland, president of the stamp club, said his appearance is for the public and affords an opportunity for residents to learn more about the postal system.

Appalachia Meeting Set

The Appalachia-Maryland Community Action Committee—representing Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties — will meet with Gov. J. Millard Tawes in Annapolis Tuesday, January 26, at 2:30 p. m.

Purpose of the meeting is to discuss local participation under the Appalachia bill and Economic Opportunity Act.

The committee composed of five representatives from each county, is chairmaned by state Rep. Samuel R. Dillon Jr., Hancock. At a meeting here last week, the committee voted to ask emergency funds for planning its program and for a survey of the area to be made by the University of Maryland.

All members of the committee have been asked to attend the meeting with the governor, Del. Dillon said. A committee "Dutch treat" luncheon will be held at the Maryland Inn at noon.

Other officers of the committee are Halmuth M. Heise, Oakland, vice chairman; and Robert C. Petersen, this city, secretary. Each of the officers also serves as local chairman for his county.

The largest number of deaths in a single highway accident—34—occurred on May 25, 1950, in Chicago when a streetcar and a truck collided.

There was only one death during the famous 31-man Lewis and Clark expedition to the West 161 years ago. That fatality resulted not from wild animals or Indians, but from a "bilious colic."

Doar Nominated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson sent to the Senate Tuesday the nomination of John Doar to be an assistant attorney general in charge of the Civil Rights Division.

Doar, a career official in the Justice Department, will replace Burke Marshall, who has resigned, upon Senate confirmation.

Will Visit Hungary

PARIS (UPI) — French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville will vist Communist Hungary, it was announced Tuesday. He will be the first Western leader to do so since the Hungarian uprising was crushed in 1956.

Most hospitalization benefits look like this:

1955 ----------→ 1965

But the amount of protection you need keeps growing...

1955 ----------→ 1965

...that's why you should look into
BLUE CROSS!

Hospital care today involves life-saving techniques and equipment that didn't exist a few years ago. This kind of progress promises us longer, healthier lives — but it also costs more money.

Most health care programs provide fixed dollar allowances for various hospital services. The trouble is that when hospital costs rise, these fixed dollar allowances actually will cover less and less of your hospital bill.

If you'd like to avoid this problem, look into Blue Cross. Most Blue Cross benefits have no dollar limits. They always provide realistic protection, because they increase in value when the cost of hospital care goes up. Because Blue Cross covers most hospital services in full, you can concentrate on getting well — not on how you're going to pay the bill.

Isn't this the kind of protection your family deserves? For information on the many Blue Cross programs available, call the office listed in your telephone directory.

Dimes Drive Workers Given Identity Cards

Only qualified workers with proper identification should collect the National Foundation-March of Dimes contribution envelopes which local residents received through the mail.

This word of caution came from William Walsh, general chairman of the March of Dimes Fund campaign for Allegany County Chapter, who said he had received complaints that children were attempting to collect the envelopes in some sections.

The envelopes should be mailed in or held for the annual Mothers March, the date of which was announced today as Sunday, January 24.

Since past experience has proved all contacts can not be made in one day, an additional three days grace has been granted Mothers March workers with final returns due on Thursday, January 28, Mr. Walsh said.

All workers should wear official identification when making the house-to-house canvass and these are included in the workers' kits being distributed throughout the city and county by Mrs. James McQuown, Mrs. Robert Dezen, Mothers March, co-chairmen, and Mrs. W. G. McCreery, executive secretary of Allegany County Chapter.

Contributions to the March of Dimes are being accepted at the Blue Cross-Blue Shield office, Liberty and Pershing streets, and this also is the main collection headquarters for the Mothers March during its regularly maintained office hours.

Philmore F. Fleming, campaign, chairman, expressed the belief that a nickel can save a child and explained the nickel will purchase the stamp to return the March of Dimes envelope which has been sent to over 20,000 homes in the area.

"Your contribution returned in that envelope immediately can mean the difference between disability and hope for a birth defect child," he said.

The March of Dimes, which successfully spearheaded the fight against polio, has turned its attention to the care of birth defect children and research into its causes looking to possible prevention. The National Foundation is financing a national network of medical care centers where modern treatment is available. Already, many children have been saved from a lifetime of disability," Mr. Fleming added.

County Snow Removal Hindered By Illegal Parking

Indiscriminate and actually illegal parking is proving to be a hindrance to snow removal efforts of the Allegany County Roads Department.

Harry Skelly, County Roads Department supervisor, declared that on Sunday he covered 150 miles of county roads during the snow storm, and found all types of violations of the emergency snow plan.

After snow reaches the depth of two inches, the snow emergency plan goes into effect and no cars are allowed on county roads unless equipped with snow tires or chains.

This rule remains in order until the public is notified by the Roads Department that the emergency plan is lifted.

Any motorist who leaves his car parked on a county road is liable to have it towed away, with the owner responsible for the towing charges, Mr. Skelly pointed out.

Many times the parking congestion does not allow the wide blades of the truck plows room to get through, he added.

Then other residents of a road affected by this complain to the roads department that their road has not been plowed.

In many other cases, trucks become mired down when they plow around a parked car, and get stuck in the soft shoulder, on in a ditch.

Just yesterday, two residents of Watercliffe Street in Lonaconing appeared before the Board of Allegany County Commissioners to complain of parking in front of their property.

This was one street where plows could not get through on Sunday, Mr. Skelly explained.

"Improper driving" is a circumstance in 85.2 per cent of all fatal accidents, and in 90 per cent of all highway accidents of all types, says the National Safety Council.

Removal of cars from county roads will lead to a more effective snow removal program, he concluded.

SRC Trying Commercial Weather Firm

The State Roads Commission is trying out a private weather eye, and so far this winter it has hit the two major snows on the nose.

The North Eastern Weather Service of Bedford, Mass., predicted the New Year's Day snow and also the Sunday fall in Western Maryland. (But the last one didn't say how much).

The Massachusetts firm has been engaged at $3,000 a year to keep the commission alerted on storms. The commercial forecasters are not a sub to the U. S. Weather Bureau, a spokesman for the SRC emphasized.

"We still depend on the U.S. bureau for the bulk of our weather information," he said. "However, their forecasts in this area are general while North Eastern can give us specific information on any given areas within 2½ hours."

The roads commission also said the commercial contract still is an experiment. "We have not determined if it is a feasible addition."

So far, the only real test was Sunday's snow and "North Eastern gave us the information we needed and we feel it was successful," the commission spokesman said.

He said the indicated value of the service is to give the commission a head start in getting snow removal crews into an area.

"It is supposed to give us a jump on trouble and we had complimentary reports that the roads had never been cleared so rapidly as Sunday," he said.

"It is too soon to tell how effective it will be, however. After this winter we will study how areas were affected or aided by the system."

The commission submits to the commercial service a list of locations on which it wants a eye kept.

"If there is any sign of storm activity, they automatically alert us by telephone," the spokesman explained.

"Then they keep up a running account either by telephone or teletype. They can pinpoint a particular city such as Cumberland which the weather bureau doesn't do generally."

Finnigan's Hollywood

BY JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The eighth annual underwater film festival will be held next month, a competition in which fish outnumber the actors.

And the fish have a better chance of winning.

Skin divers and underwater cameramen from several nations meet in Santa Monica's aquatic event. It's the same auditorium where Hollywood honors its dry land cameramen with Oscars.

The Academy of Underwater Photographers, a sponsor of the event, couldn't have picked a better spot for the show. The auditorium is only a few blocks from the Pacific Ocean. So if two fellows disagree on the best angle from which to photograph a sardine, they can jump into the ocean and prove their point.

Al Tillman, a teacher at Los Angeles State College, is director of the festival which takes place Feb. 5 and 6. He expects a crowd of 5,000 to attend the two-day event.

Tillman, who spends much of his spare time wandering around on ocean floors, said the festival is held to encourage aquatic filming.

"This is the eighth year of the festival," he said. "We started out with 200 persons in attendance. Last year we had a total of 5,000 people for two nights and we turned away 3,500 requests for tickets."

Tillman said photographers from such countries as France, Japan, Canada, Australia, Mexico, England and Germany have attended the event or sent film.

Almost all of the short films are on serious subjects, although one fellow titled his entry, "The Care and Training of Mermaids." Makes you wonder what he saw down there.

"We'll be showing a total of about 20 films in two nights," Tillman said. "We encourage photographers. They need a place to exhibit. We won't show a staged event. A reenactment of a thing is legitimate but we won't do the flagpole-sitting type of thing."

Gold medals are given for outstanding work in the non-profit festival.

"It's self supporting out of paid admissions," Tillman explained. "What we get over our expenses goes into a grant. There are three different areas where we give grants."

One enterprising photographer has requested a grant to study the behavior of sharks at night. He owns a cage which he plans to take down into the depths with him. If a shark comes too close, the lensman ducks into the cage.

Club To Hear Mrs. Schweinhaut

Mrs. Margaret Schweinhaut of Montgomery County has been invited to speak before the Senior Citizens Social Retirement Club here on Thursday, February 4, at 7:30 p. m. in the Allegany Labor Temple.

Fifty-seven members of the local club journeyed by chartered bus and train to Washington last Tuesday to join with other Senior Citizen club members interested in medicare.

At the last meeting, the speakers were Mrs. Ernest A. Lindsay, executive secretary of the Allegany County Chapter of Red Cross, and State Sen. George R. Hughes Jr.

Loans Available To Low-Income Rural Families

FHA Supervisor Has Applications

Residents of rural Allegany and Garrett counties who have been unable to obtain loans in the past will become eligible for credit under the provisions of the new Economic Opportunity Act, said B. Beeson Snyder, Farmers Home Administration supervisor.

The Act, he said, will make it possible for the FHA to make loans to low-income poverty families that have never been able to qualify under FHA operating and real estate loan programs.

Mr. Snyder pointed out the Act lowers the security requirements to obtain a loan and families whose income is too low to cover their basic needs will be able to get a loan of up to $2,500 if they can show a reasonable prospect of increasing their earnings.

No mortgage will be required, although the borrower will sign a promissory note and a loan agreement. The loans are to be repaid in 15 years at an interest rate set at four and one eighth per cent, said Mr. Snyder.

The program, he added, is available to all low-income families living on farms or in towns of less than 2,500 population which are not part of a metropolitan area.

Families will be able to obtain loans to finance farming operations or to establish a small business or shop to supplement their income. Loans for non-agricultural enterprises have never been available under the regular FHA program.

Mr. Snyder said that in Allegany County, 39 per cent of the rural families have income of less than $3,000 per year and 28 per cent have incomes of less than $2,000 per year.

Applications for loans may be made at his office located at the Garrett National Bank Building, in Oakland, or you may contact Mr. Snyder at the office of the County Extension Agent at the Court House in Cumberland on the first and third Mondays of each month from 2 to 4 p.m.

New Legal System Urged

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Kanawha County Prosecutor Charles Walker Tuesday called for a new system of legal prosecution in West Virginia.

Walker suggested that prosecuting attorney's offices be located in each of the state's 29 judicial circuits instead of the present system of a prosecuting attorney in each of the 55 counties.

He made his recommendation to the National District Attornies Association. The Association had asked for such suggestions from various prosecutors around the country in view of recent U. S. Supreme Court decisions which they said "inhibited" the activities of prosecutors.

Attempt Is Made To Enter Academy

City police yesterday were investigating an attempt to break into a South End establishment and the theft of clothes from a clothes line in the South End.

An employe of the Tri-State Beauty Academy at 120 Virginia Avenue, told police Saturday that he surprised a youth standing on a garbage can and attempting to get into a side window he had opened.

He said the youth, described as between 16 and 18, fled when he approached in a car.

Mrs. James McCollough, 227 Humbird Street, reported Saturday that clothes valued at about $35 were missing from a clothes line.

Annapolis To Mark "Ratification Day"

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A 13-star flag will fly over the Maryland State House and a fife and drum corps will perform next Thursday as the 181st anniversary of the ratification of the Treaty of Paris is celebrated.

Gov. Tawes has proclaimed Jan. 14 "Ratification Day" to commemorate the approval of the treaty which formally ended the American Revolution.

The treaty was ratified by the U.S. Congress meeting in the old Senate Chamber in the Maryland State House, thus making Annapolis the first peace-time capital of the United States.

Alien Report Due By January 31

Some 50 resident aliens have compiled with the Immigration and Nationality law requiring each alien in the United States on January 1 to report his current address to the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization before January 31.

The alien address report form is available at all local post office windows at the main office and all stations and branches.

The completed form is turned into employes at these windows. Postmaster William B. Orndorff stressed that in no case is the card to be mailed by the alien.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK: Year of Epochal Decision: 1865

2-A Union forces Jan. 1, 1865 totalled 959,460—over four times the Confederate effective strength.

Thousands of these were in the ships blockading the Rebel coasts, pursuing Confederate ships at sea, and moving troops, arms, food. Having reached the sea in the epochal march from Atlanta, Nov. 15-Dec. 21, Sherman now had the Navy as a supply line.

G. H. Thomas had an Army of the Cumberland, 46,000 strong, after his decisive victory over Hood at Nashville in mid-December. Over 60,000 were in the wings which Sherman was preparing to spread out from Savannah into the Carolinas. There were other Union forces in the lower Mississippi.

The main host were concentrated in Virginia by Grant to destroy Lee's defenders of Petersburg and Richmond. There was little going on at Petersburg. Much of George Meade's army was comfortably encamped on the Rappahannock [see war photo below]. But Sheridan's cavalry moved in the Shenandoah almost at will, blocking another raid by Early against Washington.

Grant was planning and provisioning early spring coordinated drives of his own and Sherman's commands to bottle up Lee. With the presidential election over, Grant got Lincoln's consent to replace Ben Butler in the Army of the James with Edward Ord for that drive.

Skyway Route Needed, Says SRC Official

Cumberland Thruway route, an $8.5 million project which will being construction in 1965.

"Another is Route 40 at Oakland to Northern High School at Route 219, 4 miles at $2 million. A third is Deep Creek Bridge to North Sang Run Road, 3.3 miles at $1 million. And there are several other prbjects.

"But our program can be immeasurable hastened by the Appalachian plan. Acceleration would be assured because the plan would provide additional federal funds for road construction. It is estimated that, under the plan, the Federal government will pay for some 70 per cent of construction costs.

"This is a substantial amount of money when you consider the estimated cost for completion of the route west of Hancock is $100 million for the entire 130 miles to the West Virginia line.

"This figure also includes reconstruction of Route 219 from Route 40 south to the West Virginia line, and north to the Pennsylvania line.

"We urge the passage of this all important plan.

"Considering the great boon it will be to the area, considering the job opportunities it would bring to Western Maryland, I say it is essential.

"We are ready. Our plans are complete. Right-of-way acquisition is progressing favorably. As far as the State Roads Commission is concerned, the Appalachian program can't be implemented too quickly."

Renamed Officers

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light yesterday afternoon was renamed president of the Evitts Creek Water Company.

Other officers, also renamed, are Mayor Earl D. Chaney, vice president; Mrs. Joy Oliver, secretary-treasurer, and Charles M. Koontz, Bedford, attorney.

A Pennsylvania corporation, the Evitts Creek Water Company holds title to all of the $25,000 stock in the corporation which owns real estate in the Lake Gordon section for water storage and treatment.

The election was held at the annual meeting held in the office of Mayor Earl D. Chaney.

Mr. Wenrich succeeds Fire Chief Virgil Parker of Cumberland as chairman of the organization which coordinates the radio network formed by 20 volunteer and four paid fire companies in this county.

Cromwell Zembower was renamed secretary-treasurer of the radio network.

The committee is charged with handling any radio problem involved in the operation of the Civil Defense program and regularly holds drills to test the efficiency of the network to meet emergencies.

Nearly 15,000 Served Turkey In Cafeterias

Nearly 15,000 were served Christmas turkey lunches in the public school cafeterias on December 17 but the total did not quite match the number served just before the Thanksgiving holiday.

Figures compiled in the office of the supervisor of cafeterias revealed that 14,094 children and 745 adults were served on December 17, a total of 14,839. At the pre-Thanksgiving luncheon on November 19 some 14,163 children and 707 adults, a total of 14,770 were served.

In December 1963, only 14,368 were served, 13,711 children and 655 adults.

At the time of the Christmas luncheon the county was without a supervisor of cafeterias. Mrs. Gladys M. Eaton died December 7 and Mrs. Florence R. Whitworth assumed the duties Monday.

A Linguistic Experiment

Many American educators believe the field of foreign languages is a critical weakness in U. S. schools and urge that it be extended to the elementary grades. Others, with equal conviction, argue the elementary curriculum is already crowded, that first things come first, and that learning a foreign tongue is not a first thing.

Both groups will keep interested eyes on California where, starting next fall, foreign language instruction will become mandatory for all pupils in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades.

An immediate problem faced by school boards in that state is the task of recruiting between 2,000 and 3,000 new language teachers before September. A more lasting one will be the question of whether all children, indiscriminately, can profit from the study of foreign languages and whether all possess the aptitude for absorbing them.

Whatever the final judgment of its educational experiment, California is performing a service by conducting it. The importance of improving linguistic skills was emphasized by the late Secretary of State Dulles, who viewed American inferiority in that field as a serious impediment to this country's smooth conduct of foreign affairs. And anyone who has tried to study a foreign language in adult school will agree that, like ice skating, it is best learned in childhood.

A Beef And A Yak

Thomas Deegan, the chairman of the Executive Committee of the New York World's Fair, is out to create a body of "yakkers" to talk up the wonders of the show that will be opening again next April at Flushing Meadow. He plans to enlist in his project all the natural talkers of the metropolis—the taxi drivers, the barbers, the hairdressers, and the bartenders. My friend Fred G. Clark, the Chairman of the American Economic Foundation which backs the Hall of Free Enterprise at the World's Fair, would dearly love to get his share of yakking. But before he asks for yak, he has a beef to register — and the beef is quite legitimate.

The Hall of Free Enterprise has been one of the great attractions of the World's Fair. It puts on a show called "Mr. Both Comes to Town," Mr. Both being both producer and consumer, and nobody can watch Mr. Both in action without coming away with a clear conception of how the free enterprise system works. The electronic display at the Hall of Free Enterprise, which shows what happens to a town when its main factory closes, offers irrefutable proof that a profit and loss system generates more income for more people than any other economic system that could be devised. With its definition-dispensing machines it has been a great educational influence, attracting a million visitors who have had their horizons broadened by entering its portals. For example, before watching the show only twenty-one per cent of a sample group named freedom as the key to the prosperity of the advanced nations, and only fourteen per cent mentioned tools. After seeing the show, forty-eight per cent named freedom as the cause, and seventy-two per cent named tools.

The Hall of Free Enterprise plugs capitalism without preaching; it depends on visual flow charts to show "where the money goes." It makes the point that profit is an "essential cost," for industries that are without profit find it impossible to raise investment capital. Even the Soviets have come to see that profits are necessary as an index to what kinds of renovation and development are demanded in an industry, so the Hall of Free Enterprise method of dramatizing the function of profit can hardly be written off as propaganda.

The mystery about the Hall of Free Enterprise is that Big Business itself is so niggardly in supporting it. Mr. Clark's show is not in the parlous condition of the Top of the Fair restaurant, which has gone bankrupt. But it has sometimes been hard put to it to pay the rent. The people have thronged through the doors of the Hall, but the big corporations, with some honorable exceptions, have found excuses to dodge any responsibility for maintaining something that, more than any course now being taught in the universities or high schools, demonstrates their essential reason for existence.

The trouble, as Mr. Clark diagnoses it, is that requests for corporate contributions are usually handed over to Contributions Committees which are set to dole out money as charity. "Their members," says Mr. Clark, "are products of our schools and are timid about supporting something . . . that might be considered controversial—something that might boomerang and destroy their jobs." The excuses come in four categories, each taking off from a usually unvaried topic sentence. Number One is: "We are already supporting the World's Fair." Two is: "Our budget for charity is fully committed." Three is: "We are already supporting similar economic education programs." And four is: "We have our own pavilion at the World's Fair."

Every single one of these excuses demonstrates a lack of logic that hardly bodes well for the future of the American business system. In the first place, it is not "charity" for a big industry to support something that provides a brilliant demonstration of its superiority over socialist methods of production. Secondly, there is no program in the United States that is remotely similar to "Mr. Both Comes to Town." And thirdly, the companies that "have their own pavilion" at the Fair are selling commercial products, not the survival of the system that produces and distributes those products.

This column, which often stands amazed at the inability or unwillingness of American enterprisers to defend their own economic culture, is glad to pass along Mr. Clark's beef. Now let the yakkers take over.

Commerce Secretary Goes All-Out In Avoiding Conflicts Of Interest

By Drew Pearson

WASHIINGTON — Before John T. Connor, the new Secretary of Commerce, arranged to put his Merck Drug Company stock in a trust, he called at the White House to outline the plan to the President, then conferred with LBJ's economic experts.

Connor outlined three main steps he planned to take:

First, he said he planned to resign every connection he had, not only business, but as a trustee of colleges and universities.

"Why are you doing that?" Connor was asked.

"Don't colleges get research contracts from the federal government?" he replied.

"Not from you."

"But they do from some of my colleagues," he said, and stuck by his decision.

Second, he has a clear understanding with the Morgan Guaranty Co., his trustee, that they will sell his Merck stock. It will not be sold immediately, since this would break the market, also he would lose about half a million dollars in capital gains taxes. But the stock will be sold.

Third, Connor under no circumstances will know what his money is invested in. He will get a check from Morgan Guaranty Co., once a year, but they will not report to him on any of his investments.

The President's economists plus members of the Senate Commerce Committee concluded that Connor had gone far enough, in fact, much further than certain other cabinet members in avoiding all possible conflict of interest.

Ike's Secretary Of The Treasury

In contrast, Ike's Secretary of the Treasury, George M. Humphrey, refused to sell his stock even though it was directly affected by the taxes the treasury imposed. He argued that the law did not forbid him to own stock and cited his own law firm as authority. Two members of that firm were later made assistant secretary of the treasury and counsel of Internal Revenue.

Humphrey owned 67,555 shares in the M. A. Hanna Co., a holding company which benefitted from tax and other treasury policies, and which made a profit for Humphrey of $202,665 in 1956 alone.

Humphrey also owned 20,000 shares in Pittsburgh Consolidation. Its stock in 1953 when Humphrey became secretary of the treasury was valued at $126,160,704. When Humphrey got out in 1957, its value was $368,306,250. In other words, it had increased in value $242,145,546 during the period Humphrey was head of the treasury.

A factor which probably contributed to its increased value was an event which followed a $300,000,000 loan from the Export-Import Bank, whose decision Humphrey as treasury head, guided, to Brazil. After this loan was granted Brazilian National Steel, 85 per cent owned by the Brazilian government, canceled part of a long standing coal contract with Eastern Fuel and Gas to award a large contract to Pittsburgh Consolidation.

After Humphrey left the Eisenhower Cabinet, he became President of National Steel, another affiliate of the M. A. Hanna Co. Its shares had increased in value from $374,758,720 to $484,962,000 during the period Humphrey was in office. He owned 13,200 shares at $50, or $660,000, and kept his stock. He did not even put it in trust during his term in the treasury.

LBJ's First Teacher

The one person whom President Johnson most wants at his swearing-in, aside from his immediate family, is Mrs. Chester Lowrey, the teacher who taught him in grade school back in Texas.

When Mrs. Lowrey, now living in Rough and Ready, Calif., was reached on the telephone by the White House, she said she certainly wanted to come to see her "foremost pupil" become President in his own right.

However, Mrs. Lowrey is in her seventies and not feeling as spry as in bygone days. She hopes to come, but is not absolutely certain she can make the long trip.

Untiring Professor

It's been a long time since Alexander Meiklejohn as president of Amherst churned up the educational world — so long that some people have forgotten him. The educational world, however, will not forget him — nor will the underdogs whom he championed.

Almost 93 years old, Meiklejohn had the satisfaction of living long enough to see some of the controversial educational ideas he initiated become standard for the educational world.

Tall, straight as a ramrod, a bit fragile physically, Meiklejohn at the age of 92 never stopped fighting. He slipped into Washington two months ago all by himself to visit old students and spur them on.

His greatest crusade was complete freedom of expression on the university campus — and elsewhere. "No belief or advocacy may be denied freedom," he taught, "if in the same situation opposing beliefs or advocacies are granted that freedom."

Last month, living in retirement in Berkeley, Calif., Alec Meiklejohn quietly passed on. Today in Washington his old students pay tribute to his memory.

School Aid Proposal: Hope For The Hopeless

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON—Far and away the most exciting proposal in the President's legislative program is a request for authority to give $800 million of federal aid to schools in low-income neighborhoods.

The need is desperate, for reasons we have all been too slow to recognize. In "The Other America," Michael Harrington for the first time pointed out that our growth of affluence has actually worsened the lot of our remaining poor.

Affluence not only makes poverty more cruel by sheer force of contrast. It also makes poverty much harder to escape from because of the increasing divergence in social patterns, outlook and habits between the 10% who are really poor and the 90% who are much, much better off.

In the urban and rural ghettoes and slums, therefore, a kind of outcast society has developed. Harrington called it "The Other America" for good reason because it is quite different from normal American society. And this outcast society is being perpetuated — it is even being made quasi-hereditary — because the children of this "Other America" are not being equipped, either by experience or by education, to escape from their outcast condition into the normal current of American life.

Such are the grim facts, amply documented by sheaves of newly gathered statistics. Among these statistics, some that the biologists and sociologists have collected are of special interest. Studies made in New York, for instance, have revealed that the IQs of Negro Shildren from the worst slum areas actually decline quite perceptibly after they enter school.

Other studies have disclosed hitherto unsuspected effects of the common conditions of slum life, such as broken homes, children with none to care for them but working mothers and very young untended children either locked in apartments like little animals or left like animals to run wild on the streets. Six- and seven-year-olds with this kind of early conditioning come to school with dificient vocabularies, hardly knowing the names of common things, and otherwise shockingly unprepared to compete with children of average background.

These studies of the sociologists in turn have been documented by the biologists and psychologists working with their laboratory animals. Simple richness of experience has now been proven to be the great promoter of mental growth. Early deprivation has been shown to be the gravest sort of handicap.

All these rather recent discoveries must be born in mind if one is to understand the chief peculiarity of the kind of school aid the President wants to give. Its chief peculiarity is that it is discriminatory. If the plan works as intended, the $800 million of federal aid will only go to schools in deprived neighborhoods. None will be given to schools in neighborhoods in the lower-middle-to-prosperous range.

There may be arguments about the technical devices adopted to achieve this kind of discrimination, such as making federal payments to a school district proportional to the number of really low-income inhabitants — those with less than $2000 a year per family — as revealed by the census. But there should be no argument about the basic principle of discrimination in favor of schools in the ghettoes and the slums.

As has been pointed out before in this space, the prevailing American rule that all schools are equal is the sheerest nonsense by any practical test. To make matters worse, this rule is generally applied in such a way that some schools are more equal than others.

Go into the average urban slum. You will find the worst school in the city, with the smallest teaching staff, the highest number of substitute teachers, the most antiquated building, the poorest playground and so on and on. Go into the middle-class-to-prosperous urban neighborhood, the voices of whose people are heard at city hall. You will find one of the best schools in the city.

Logically and practically it should be just the other way around. In the deprived neighborhood the home cannot do its customary job because of the physical conditions of life and the emerging social patterns of "The Other America." Hence, the school in such neighborhoods must go quite far to replace the home; and for this very reason, schools in deprived neighborhoods must be much better staffed and equipped than the average.

Such schools, in sum, need extra help because they have a bigger job to do. The job is not purely educational. It is social. It is the job of giving hope to the hopeless by opening doors of escape from "The Other America." And the President is dead right to want to give these schools the extra help they need.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

HOW TO BE A CELEBRITY—One of the more intriguing aspects of the Bobby Baker investigation concerns his former secretary, young beauty contest winner Carole Tyler. Her name keeps popping up in the investigation but somehow matters get choked off before they come fully to light.

Miss Tyler herself took the witness stand under subpoena last spring and pleaded the Fifth and other amendments in not answering a series of questions involving what she had done and what she observed of events leading up to the current brouhaha.

Miss Tyler has, on occasion, displayed her distaste for representatives of the press who have tried with marked lack of success to wheedle some comments out of her.

But things may be looking up. Miss Tyler is scheduled to make an appearance — and deliver a speech—in her native state, before the Tennessee Press Association in Nashville.

She's maintaining complete silence about the subject of her address. But reporters who had been covering the Baker affair are willing to bet that no more will be known about it after her speech than before it.

The Boiling Water Cure For Facial Neuralgia

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

In an article we wrote last year on trigeminal neuralgia (tic douloureux) we mentioned the decompression operation favored by some surgeons, when simpler treatments fail. One advantage to this procedure is that relief is obtained without producing numbness of the face. But a disadvantage is that recurrences of pain can be expected in approximately one third of the patients.

This year the preference is for injecting a few drops of boiling water into the ganglion to destroy the nerve cells. Numbness of the affected area follows. In a recent report on this method, the authors said results were successful in all but a few of 390 patients. Reinjection was needed in 21 per cent, which is about the same rate of recurrence as after the decompression surgery.

Trigeminal neuralgia is the granddaddy of all neuralgias. One branch of the trigeminal nerve goes to the eye and brow, the second to the upper jaw and cheek, and the third to the lower jaw. Usually only one branch is affected but there is a tendency for all three to become involved. As a rule, the disease is one-sided.

The victim goes through periods in which he has bouts of sharp, lightning-like excruciating pain. One stabbing sensation follows another over a period of seconds or minutes. Pain strikes without warning and disappears just as fast. Then, for no apparent reason, the episodes stop, only to return weeks or months later. Between attacks, the face feels normal although a few have mild residual discomfort.

Trigger zones exist during the active stage and a slight touch, or even the wind blowing over these sensitive areas, will set off a paroxysm. For this reason, until the siege subsides, the individual may refuse to wash the face, shave, or walk out of doors.

The cause of tic douloureux is ont known. Removal of teeth or draining the sinuses has no effect on the condition. Some respond to the inhalation of trichlorethylene; others, to the use of sodium dilantin — an epilepsy remedy.

FURRED TONGUE

D. K. C. writes: For nearly a year I have had a coated tongue on arising in the morning. What are the usual causes of this condition?

REPLY

The list includes poor oral hygiene, mouth breathing (snoring), not drinking enough fluids, drinking milk or eating ice cream at bedtime and not brushing the teeth afterward, alcoholism, nasal and sinus infections, and indigestion and other digestive disorders.

WART ON SOLE

F. S. writes: What do plantar wart come from?

REPLY

Viruses. Some develop over pressure areas whereas others from on any part of the sole. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on plantar warts.

INHALANT ALLERGENS

J. M. writes: What are the most common inhalant irritants that cause allergy?

REPLY

Dust, pollen, molds, animal dander, and the debris of insects.

OPTIC NERVE DISORDER

A. H. writes: I had a bout of optic neuritis 20 years ago and another last summer. I have recovered 90 per cent of my vision after treatment with cortisone. Is there any way to prevent a recurrence?

REPLY

Not to my knowledge, unless the cause is found and a remedy is available.

HAMMER-TOE

J. R. D. writes: What would you say is the most likely cause of hammer-toe: Arthritis or ill-fitting shoes?

REPLY

The defect, in most instances, is hereditary. Short, narrow shoes also may be responsible. The second digit bends after years of pressure against the toe of the shoe.

TOMORROW: X-raying the stomach and Intestines.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Myron Cohen knows a waiter who suffered a severe cramp and was rushed to the hospital. As he lay doubled with pain on an emergency ward table, he grabbed a doctor hurrying by and implored, "Help me, help me. I'm dying." "Sorry," snapped the doctor. "This isn't my table."

Bill Kennedy tells of a bashful fellow who visited a jewelry shop and asked to see some engagement rings. The clerk asked, What sort of a setting do you have in mind?" The bashful fellow blushed and stammered, "Well, probably, her living room couch."

Herb Stein details the dilemma in which a student pilot recently found himself. His training plane obviously had developed engine trouble. Knowing he had to lighten his load forthwith, he implored his instructor, "Tell me what to do. Should I get rid of our 400 gallons of gasoline, or throw out the Jayne Mansfield pin-up over the instrument board?

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

An old man sat on the floor at Newark Airport. It was the only seat left. A woman with three children stood at a counter in Kennedy Airport and broke down weeping. "Why didn't you tell me that there would be no flight tonight? Why didn't you call my home?" At Miami International, two men threatened Senor Fuentes of Eastern. "We're tired of your bull," they said. "You lied to us for the last time."

Fuentes called two policemen.

It was like this all over the East on January 2. A thin sliver of snow measuring seven-one hundredths of an inch, had fallen in the East. This had been covered by cold rain, and quick-frozen by a temperature of 27 degrees. The airlines failed the customers. And the people by the thousands sat waiting for service for hours on end.

Air travel today is swift and sure and safe. It requires no more courage to fly a modern plane than to board a bus. For years, through the courtesy of the FAA, I have flown the flight decks with the crews, and I can testify that every safety precaution is in force at all times.

The weakness in air travel is in waiting. The airlines have not learned how to get the passengers from the clerk's desk into the plane. First they want a phone call. Then they want the customer to pick up the tickets and pay for them ahead of time. Then they want another phone call to "confirm" the flight.

The trip may require a half hour, but the airlines expect the passenger to arrive at the airport forty minutes ahead. He must weigh his luggage, have his ticket examined, wait in line, select a seat, sit and wait for the flight to be called, walk a quarter of a mile to a gate, have the ticket re-examined, walk aboard, show the ticket to a stewardess, and sit and wait until the crew is told to start engines.

All of this is for the comfort of the airline. It is like this on a sunny day. The clerks are bland, polite and uninformed. They cannot tell you what the weather is like on the other end, and they cannot speed the laborious process of examining the ticket, weighing and tagging luggage, and making phone calls.

If there is a little bad weather, as there was at the tag end of Christmas week, then the planes and crews may be ready, but the men in charge of Flight Operations pull the Panic Button. Flight 156, Miami-to-Chicago, was due to leave in clear weather at 10 p. m., but, because flights out of the north were slow, passengers at Miami were still asking for information at the Eastern counter at 2 a. m. the next morning.

Flight 643, due out of Newark, N. J. at 9 p. m., was still on the ground, loaded with passengers, at midnight. A young mother with an 11-day-old baby listened to the fretful crying and finally broke down. Thousands of outbound passengers at Kennedy, and thousands of families waiting to meet inbound flights, stood elbow-to-elbow waiting through the night.

At Miami International, someone studied the passengers sleeping on benches and on the floor, and asked why the VIP lounge could not be opened. A desk clerk grinned. "For this mob?" he said, shaking his head. Senor Fuentest of Eastern Airlines phoned someone to ask if the Falcon Lounge could be opened so that some of the mothers could rest with their children. The reply was no.

The Flight Operations bosses of each airline lost control of the situation. They had no stand-by aircraft. In one case they had a crew, but no plane. In another, the information clerk said that the plane was ready, but they were trying to round up a crew. Some desperate parents put their children in a model boat on display, and the well-mannered youngsters tore the controls off it.

Flight 156, due out at 10 p. m., took off for Chicago at 3 a. m. and some of the passengers said that their families had been waiting at O'Hara Airport since 11:30 CST.

One of the men who said he was tired of Fuentes' excuses was obviously intoxicated. He had spent the waiting hours in the bar. Mr. Fuentes, who has spent fifteen years soothing irate passengers, could not soothe this man. The two policemen listened to the hot dialogue and did nothing.

Flight 643, due in from Newark at 11:30, arrived at 2:44 a. m. There was nothing wrong with the plane. Nothing wrong with the crew. Nothing wrong with the 7/100ths of an inch of snow. Flight Operations just fell apart. It did not even send accurate information to the airline clerks.

The passengers got off wearily. The mother with the infant smiled. They trooped out to the baggage area. It was 3:09 a. m. when the young man driving the luggage carts brought the final valises. The sheep waited.

There must be a better way of running an airline . . .

British railways have just announced they will charge persons entering onto train platforms to bid traveling friends farewell three pence a visit. Guess we'll have to revise Shakespeare to read: "Parting is such sweet — and expensive — sorrow"!

The Sun will eventually shrink to a "white dwarf," astronomers predict. Judging by the temperature outside today, maybe it already has.

W.Va. Medicare Bill Will Go To Legislature

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — The Legislature's main interim committees on Government and Finance said Tuesday they would send a proposed medicare bill to the Legislature with recommendation for passage.

The bill would authorize State Welfare Commissioner W. Bernard Smith to enter into contracts with Blue Cross or Blue Shield or similar non - profit insurance agencies to provide medical assistance to the aged and public welfare recipients.

The bill provides that the commissioner would award contracts to the lowest bidder meeting insurance requirements to provide drugs, medical supplies, nursing care, hospitalization and other medical services.

The bill provides that contracts should be solicited by the State Purchasing Division and that the content of the contracts comes under the responsibility of the State Attorney General.

In other action, the committee said it would send to the Legislature without recommendation a proposed bill that would make industrial savings and loan associations in West Virginia into state banks with limited powers.

Appearing to support the bill were Ray N. Wells of Parkersburg, F. M. Davis of Wheeling and E. H. Camp, representatives of the West Virginia Industrial and Loan Association. Robert E. Stealey of Parkersburg, representing the State Bankers Association, appeared to oppose it.

Davis told the committees the bill would enable them to apply to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., to insure customer deposits up to $10,000.

The bill would also allow the companies to invest 65 per cent of their capital and surplus funds in real estate and eliminate business and occupation taxes.

Banks are not subject to business and occupation taxation.

Stealey told the group the bankers association sees "serious implications" in the proposed bill, which he said would create an entirely new setup of banks in West Virginia.

Stealey charged that 46 industrial and loan companies operate in the state and "that 21 of these are obviously chain operations."

By allowing them to become banks would violate the state banking law which prohibits branch banking, he said.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson's education program submitted to Congress Tuesday could be worth more than $17 million to West Virginia, according to figures released by Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va.

A total of $1,072,551 could be provided for supplementary services and centers and $153,808 for grants to state education departments to increase their capabilities.

Randolph said the total could come to $17,710,172 during the 1965-66 fiscal year under the program costing a total of $1.2 billion.

KITCHEN NOTES

By MARIAN KEMP, Home Economist

The smell of BREAD BAKING always brings "Ah's" from the family. We are fortunate that a variety of good breads are available at the super markets but once in awhile it inflates ones ego to set before the family a home made bread.

RIBBON LOAF

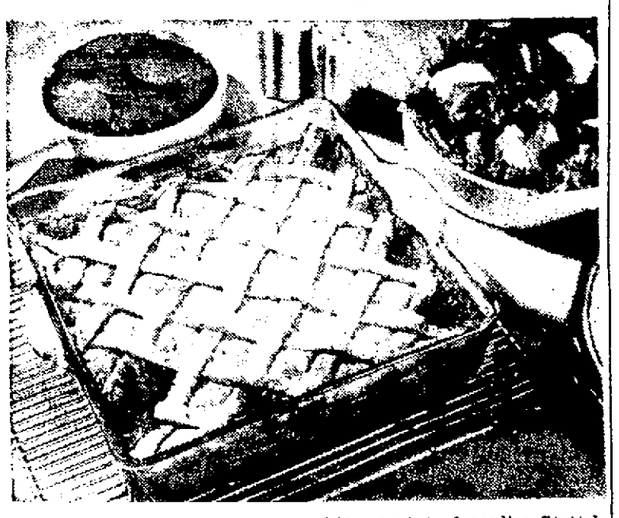
1 pkg. yeast, compressed or dry
¼ cup water (lukewarm for compressed yeast, warm for dry)
½ cup milk
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons melted shortening
2½ cups sifted enriched flour (about)
1 egg, beaten
Melted butter or margarine
Cinnamon sugar

Soften yeast in water. Scald milk. Add sugar, salt and shortening. Cool to lukewarm. Add enough flour to make a thick batter. Mix well. Add softened yeast and egg. Beat well. Add more flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until smooth and satiny. Place in greased bowl. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled (about 1½ hours). When light, punch down. Let rest 10 minutes. Roll out into rectangle 12 x 15 inches. Brush with melted butter or margarine and sprinkle with cinnamon sugar. Fold over in thirds to make a strip 4 x 15 inches. Cut dough into 10 equal parts. Stand on end close together in greased loaf pan 8½ x 4½ inches. Let rise until doubled (about 45 minutes). Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 35 to 40 minutes. Makes 1 Ribbon Loaf, 8½ x 4½ inches.

CHUNK O'CHEESE BREAD

1¾ cups water
¼ cup corn meal
2 teaspoons salt
½ cup molasses
2 tablespoons shortening
1 pkg. dry yeast or 1 cake compressed yeast
½ cup warm water
4½ cups sifted enriched flour
1 tablespoon cooking oil
1 lb. American cheese
Corn meal

Combine in saucepan water, corn meal, salt. Bring to boil, cook, until slightly thickened, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Add molasses and shortening; cool to lukewarm. In mixing bowl soften yeast in warm water; add corn meal mixture; blend thoroughly. Gradually add flour to form stiff dough. Knead on floured surface until smooth, about 5 minutes. (To knead, fold dough over on itself and push with palms of hands. Repeat this process rhythmically, turning dough one quarter way around each time.) Grease 2¼ quart bowl with oil. Place dough in bowl; cover with damp cloth. Let rise in warm place (85° to 90°F.) until light and doubled in size, 1 to 1½ hours. Add American cheese, cut in ½-inch cubes. Knead on floured surface until cheese cubes are evenly distributed. Divide dough in two parts. Shape into round loaves on board sprinkled with corn meal. Place loaves in 8-inch greased and floured round pans. Let rise in warm place until light and doubled in size, about 1 hour. Bake in moderate oven 350°F., 45 to 55 minutes until deep golden brown. Makes two loaves.



GROUND BEEF is the basis for a great variety of dishes. If you shop once a week and are not going to use the hamburg by the next day, freeze it. A convenient way to do this is to shape it into individual patties, wrap each in a fold of wax paper, put all in one freezer bag and place in the freezer for future use. This way meat will freeze more quickly and likewise thaw in less time. It also enables one to take out of the freezer only what is needed for perhaps a single hamburger or enough for a meat loaf for dinner.

ITALIAN BEEF CASSEROLE

2 lbs. ground beef
½ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons drippings or butter
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon oregano
3 cans (8 oz. each) tomato sauce
1 pkg. (8 oz.) wide noodles, cooked
1 pint (1 lb.) cream-style cottage cheese
Parsley flakes

Brown ground beef, onion and green pepper in butter or drippings. Pour off drippings. Combine salt, oregano and tomato sauce and add to beef mixture. Place half the noodles in the bottom of a greased 3-qt. casserole and place half of cottage cheese on top of noodles. Spread half of the ground beef mixture over cheese. Repeat layers. Sprinkle with parsley flakes. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for 30 to 35 minutes. 6 to 8 servings.

CHEESE CRUSTED HAMBURGER PIE

3 tablespoons fat
1 lb. ground beef
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
¼ cup enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
2¼ cups tomato juice
½ cup chopped celery
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce

Melt fat in heavy skillet. Add ground beef and green pepper and brown well. Stir in flour and salt. Add tomato juice and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Stir in celery and Worcestershire sauce. Pour into 8-inch square baking dish. Top with CHEESE PASTRY: 1½ cups sifted enriched flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup shortening, ¾ cup shredded American cheese, 3 tablespoons cold water (about). Roll out about ⅛ inch thick. Cut into 8-inch square and cover hamburger mixture. Cut remaining pastry into strips ½-inch wide and arrange lattice style on top of 8-inch pastry square. Bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) about 30 minutes. Serves 6.

Choco-Scotch Bonbons

2½ cups sugar
1⅔ cups evaporated milk
¼ teaspoon salt
1 6-ounce package (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate morsels, divided
1 6-ounce package (1 cup) butterscotch flavored morsels, divided
½ teaspoon vanilla
12 candied cherries, halved
6 soft date halves, cut lengthwise
24 salted peanut halves, in clusters of 4
6 walnut or pecan halves
1 tablespoon shortening

Combine sugar, evaporated milk, and salt in deep 3-quart saucepan. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Continue boiling for 5 minutes, constantly stirring up from bottom. Remove from heat; add ¾ cup each of chocolate and butterscotch morsels, and vanilla; stir until smooth. Press pieces of fruit and nuts into the top in 6 rows approximately 1 inch apart. Melt remaining ¼ cup each of chocolate and butterscotch morsels with shortening over hot (not boiling) water. Remove from heat and spoon over fudge to completely cover the top. Chill until firm. Cut into squares so that each is centered with a piece of fruit or nut.

YIELD: Approximately 2¼ pounds or 36 pieces.

Orange Cake Filled With Apricot Sauce

Orange chiffon cake and sunny apricots are a basic betrothal in the culinary realm. Apricot Torte is such a wedding of desserts. Drain the apricots from a No. 303 can of an unpeeled, dietetic pack. Add the juice to 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin which has been softened in ¼ cup water. Heighten flavor with 1½ teaspoons lemon juice, chill in refrigerator. Puree apricots and blend into gelatin mixture. Return to refrigerator to thicken slightly. In the meantime, slice an 8-inch orange chiffon cake into 3 equal layers. Spread thickened apricot mixture, ½ cupful at a time, between the layers and on top.

Makes 12 servings.

Provisions Listed For New Cake Bakers

New cooks who intend to do cake-baking should provide themselves with a flour sifter, a nest of graduated measuring cups (for dry ingredients), a glass measuring cup (for liquids), a set of graduated measuring spoons, a spatula and a rubber scraper. Mixing bowls and spoons, a rubber scraper, cake pans and a couple of wire racks are also necessary.

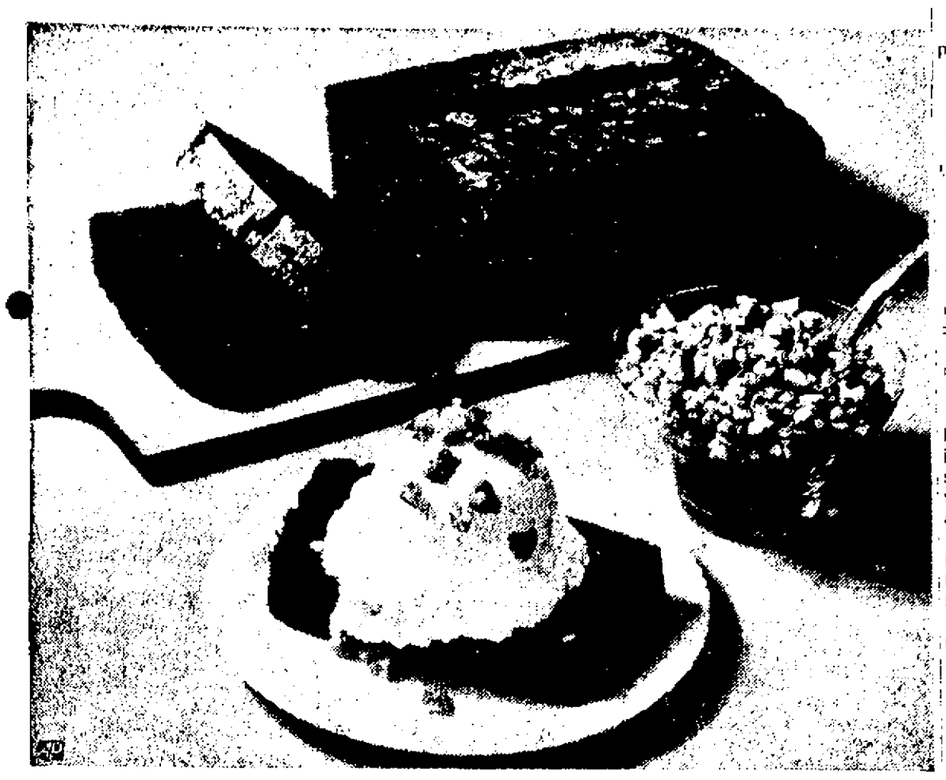
Who's For Chocolate Cake?



CHOCOLATE LOAF CAKE — Fine to serve plain or frosted, or with ice cream and chopped toasted walnuts.

By CECIL BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

IF YOU are wondering how new "no-melt" chocolate works out in a basic cake, we can report "just fine!"

We tried it in the following recipe for two loaves of chocolate cake, so convenient to have on hand. We served one loaf shortly after baking and stored the other in the refrigerator where it seemed to benefit from the holdover.

This chocolate loaf is fine to serve plain or frosted with an after-dinner cup of coffee; or you can fancy it up with ice cream and a sundae sauce. Is this dessert the light or dark variety of chocolate cake? We'd say it was medium.

The recipe calls for buttermilk, but if there is none in the house, you may make a substitute. To do so, just pour 1 tablespoon of cider vinegar into a 1-pint measure; add enough milk to make 1 cup; stir and let the combination stand in a warm place for a few minutes before using.

NEW CHOCOLATE LOAF CAKE

- 2½ cups sifted cake flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 2 cups sugar
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- 5 eggs
- 3 envelopes (each 1 ounce) unsweetened chocolate product
- 1 cup buttermilk
- 1 cup finely chopped walnuts, if desired

Sift together the flour, baking soda and salt. Beat together the butter, sugar and vanilla until the consistency of mayonnaise; add eggs one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Add unsweetened chocolate product; beat to blend. Add sifted dry ingredients in 4 additions, alternately with buttermilk, beating until smooth after each addition. Fold in walnuts if used. Pour into 2 ungreased loaf pans (each 9 by 5 by 3 inches) whose bottoms have been lined with wax paper. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven for 1 hour or until a wire cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean. Turn out on wire rack; remove paper; turn right side up; cool. Store tightly covered. Color of cake is medium dark and crack on top is characteristic.

Pineapple Refrigerator Cake

- 1 can (20 ounces) crushed pineapple
- 1 envelope unflavored gelatine
- cup sugar
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup heavy cream
- Ladyfingers
- Whipped cream
- Pecans

Drain syrup from pineapple into measuring cup; add water to make 1 cup. Sprinkle gelatine over syrup mixture in medium saucepan. Place over low heat; stir constantly until gelatine dissolves, 2 to 3 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in sugar and salt. Add pineapple. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from spoon. Whip cream; fold into pineapple mixture. Line sides of a 6-cup mold with split ladyfingers. Turn pineapple mixture into mold. Chill until firm. Unmold on serving platter. Garnish with whipped cream and pecans. If desired, place additional ladyfingers and pecans around base of mold. YIELD: 6 to 8 servings.

Fruit Pudding For Party Snack

Ever serve pudding for a party snack?

Hot Fruit Pudding
Coffee or Tea
Hot Fruit Pudding

- 4 to 6 Winesap apples, 1½ to 2 pounds
- ¼ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
- can (8 ounces) halved Bartlett pears, drained
- 8 maraschino cherries, halved
- 2 tablespoons maraschino cherry syrup
- ½ cup flour
- ¾ cup granulated sugar
- Dash of salt
- ¼ cup butter or margarine, melted

Pare and slice apples into a buttered ovenproof glass baking dish (1½ by 8 by 2 inches); sprinkle with brown sugar. Top with sliced pear halves, cherries and cherry syrup.

Stir together the flour, granulated sugar and salt; with a fork stir in melted butter; sprinkle over fruit.

Bake in a slow (325 degrees) oven 30 to 40 minutes or until apples are tender. Topping will not brown.

Serve warm with whipped cream or vanilla ice cream.

Makes 8 servings.

A Popcorn Mixture To Serve Small Fry

When you are planning on popping about 3 quarts of corn for a small-fry party, have about half a pound of peanuts on hand to mix with the pop corn.

When you are popping corn for youngsters, add salt and butter as usual, then put aside a portion for the oldsters and sprinkle that with paprika and grated parmesan or romano cheese. Serve at once.

Clam Chowder A La King

New England clam chowder is one of our most popular native American dishes. Now along comes Frenchman, Pierre Franey, executive chef for Howard Johnson's, with ideas on how to give clam chowder a continental touch. He combines it with left-over chicken for a quick, easy-to-prepare luncheon or late-supper snack.

To a can of his concentrated clam chowder he adds ½ cup diced chicken, a chopped pimiento, ½ cup light cream or top milk, and a tablespoon of sherry wine. Heath thoroughly and serve over toast with a topping of toasted slivered almonds. Makes 2 to 4 servings.

To Keep Pot Roast Moist

The gravy made with pot roast is (or can be) the most flavorful in the world — but often the meat itself becomes dry. This is because so much of the meat juice is drawn out during the long, slow cooking.

Here's a Spanish secret for keeping the meat moist and succulent: pierce the meat in several places and brush into the holes 2 or 3 tablespoons of olive oil so that the oil penetrates into the fibers of the meat. This can be done again before the meat is reheated in the gravy.

Contrary to many wives tales, olive oil will not make the gravy greasy, actually it helps to give the gravy a smooth, silky consistency without added flour.

Chiffon Pie Is Unusual

A slightly different version of favorite pies.

Menu

Seafood Chowder and Crackers
Chef's Salad Bowl Rolls
Pumpkin Chiffon Pie Beverage

Pumpkin Chiffon Pie

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- ¾ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons pumpkin pie sauce
- ¾ cup milk
- 1½ cups canned pumpkin
- 3 eggs, separated
- ¾ cup granulated sugar
- 9-inch graham cracker-nut pie shell
- ½ cup heavy cream (whipped, lightly sweetened and vanilla-flavored)

In the top of a double boiler mix together well the gelatin, brown sugar, salt and pumpkin pie spice. Stir in milk, then pumpkin; whisk in egg yolks.

Cook and stir constantly over boiling water until hot through and gelatin is dissolved—about 10 minutes.

Chill over ice cubes and water, stirring often, until mixture will mound. Beat egg whites until stiff; gradually beat in granulated sugar until very stiff; fold in thickened pumpkin mixture.

Turn into pie shell; chill until firm. Garnish with whipped cream.

Advice On Storing Processed Meats

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of "cure" when you're storing processed meats. Refrigerate sausage and smoked meats to keep them fresh and wholesome. Don't open the original package until ready to use.

Gingerbread Plus: Homey Snack or Dessert

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Do you, like some cooks we know, have a special category in your recipe file for those rules that include wheat germ?

Such a category usually makes a health-conscious cook feel virtuous because wheat germ offers high-quality protein and it is especially rich in the B vitamins and vitamin E. But no matter how virtuous you enjoy feeling, we suggest that you carefully choose the recipes featuring wheat germ, making sure that they are the ones your family and friends will relish.

With taste buds as well as nutrition in mind, then, we have no hesitation in recommending that you add the following homey recipe for gingerbread to your file. When the rule was tested at our house, our tasters rated it high.

Another plus — this recipe is extremely simple to prepare. Regular flour is called for, but it does not need to be sifted before measuring; neither does it need sifting with the leavening (baking soda), salt and spices — all you have to do is stir. There's no creaming of the butter or margarine and sugar, either, because the fat is melted. The batter is just beaten together in jigtime.

HOT GINGERBREAD — So delicious for dessert with a pudding sauce. Or serve it at snacktime with crisp red apples.

WHEAT GERM GINGERBREAD

- 2 cups unsifted flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 1½ teaspoons cinnamon
- 1½ teaspoons ginger
- ¼ teaspoon cloves
- ½ cup sugar
- ½ cup wheat germ
- 1 cup buttermilk
- ¾ cup light molasses
- ⅓ cup butter or margarine, melted
- 2 eggs

In a mixing bowl stir together the flour, baking soda, salt, cinnamon, ginger, cloves, sugar and wheat germ. Add buttermilk, molasses, melted butter and eggs. Beat just until batter is smooth. Turn into a well-greased square cake pan (9 by 9 by 1¾ inches). Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven for 35 to 40 minutes or until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean.

Cut into serving-size portions in pan and remove with a wide spatula; serve hot. Or cool gingerbread in pan placed on wire rack for 5 minutes; loosen sides with a small spatula; turn out on wire rack; turn right side up; cool; store tightly covered at room temperature or in the refrigerator; reheat whole or as many portions as are needed, on foil in a moderate oven, before serving. Make 9 servings.

Note: This gingerbread may be served for snacktime "as is;" or for dessert at mealtime with whipped cream or a foamy-type or lemon-flavored pudding sauce.

Chocolate Mint Shakes For Youth

Pleasant refreshment when the youngesters get together.

Chocolate Mint Shakes

- 1 quart milk
- ½ cup chocolate syrup
- Peppermint extract

Beat together the milk, chocolate syrup and 8 to 12 drops of peppermint extract. If made ahead, cover and chill; beat just before serving. Makes four large serving; increase recipe as needed.

Little Supper Fondue Treat

Little suppers are becoming more fashionable for modern families with whirlwind schedules. A leisurely meal with a few friends is an important event. For an evening to remember, plan a communal dish—perhaps a fondue. Cheese and wine in essence is the base for a fondue.

It should be hot and heady with the flavor of wine (alcoholic spirits evaporate off with heating).

The bubbly, boily pot gets richer and more flavorsome the longer it remains on the spirit lamp or warmer. Use a crock or metal chafing dish.

Serve crunchy, crusty bread and longtined forks for dipping chunks into the melty cheese dish. Evaporated milk, smooth and creamy rich, blends nutty-sweet Swiss cheese into a delightful fondue in this new recipe.

Dip A La Swiss

Mix in a heavy 2-quart saucepan:

- 10½-oz. can cream of mushroom soup
- 1 tablespoon flour

Stir in:

- 1 lb. grated process Swiss cheese (about 4 cups)
- ⅓ cup evaporated milk
- ¼ cup Sauterne
- 4 drops tabasco

Cook and stir over low heat until cheese is melted and mixture is thick enough for dipping, about twelve minutes. (Mixture thickens on standing.)

Serve hot with pieces of garlic buttered toasted French Bread, parsley flakes or paprika.

Makes 3½ cups.

Pineapple Pie Tastes Like Ambrosia

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

American cooks go right on creating interesting versions of this favorite dessert. Here is one of their latest concoctions, tested in our kitchen and found delicious.

Although this chiffon-type pie doesn't call for one speck of whipped cream, it tastes remarkably creamy. The flavor is a great combination of pineapple, orange and coconut.

PINEAPPLE AMBROSIA PIE — A creamy filling of crushed pineaple with a hint of orange nestles in an easy-to-make coconut crust.

PINEAPPLE AMBROSIA PIE

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 can (8¾-ounce) crushed pineapple
- ½ cup orange juice
- 3 eggs separated
- 1 teaspoon grated orange rind

Coconut Crust

In a heavy saucepan over low heat, stir together the gelatin, sale and ¼ up of the sugar. Stir in the undrained pineapple and the orange juice. Cook and stir constantly over low heat until gelatin dissolves. Beat egg yolks and stir in; continue cooking and stirring over low heat until mixture thickens slightly. Remove from heat; stir in orange rind. Cool to lukewarm. Beat egg whites until frothy; gradually beat in remaining ¼ cup sugar, continuing to beat if necessary until very stiff and glossy. Fold into lukewarm mixture. Turn into cooled baked Coconut Crust. Chill until firm.

COCONUT CRUST

- 1½ cups flaked coconut
- 2 tablespoons butter, soft

Thoroughly mix together the coconut and butter. Pat evenly over bottom and sides of a 9-inch pie plate. Bake in a slow (300 degrees) oven for 15 to 20 minutes or until golden brown. Cool.

This Salad Makes The Entire Meal

Here is a special recipe for Caesar salad. Add 1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate with garlic flavor to ¼ cup wine vinegar; stir to dissolve. Cube two slices day old bread; brown in 2 tablespoons salad oil. Place 8 cups torn crisp greens in deep salad bowl; break 1 raw egg onto salad greens. Combine wine vinegar with 4 tablespoons salad oil; beat to blend. Add to salad with 1 can anchovy fillet, and ¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Toss until greens glisten with dressing and all trace of egg has disappeared.

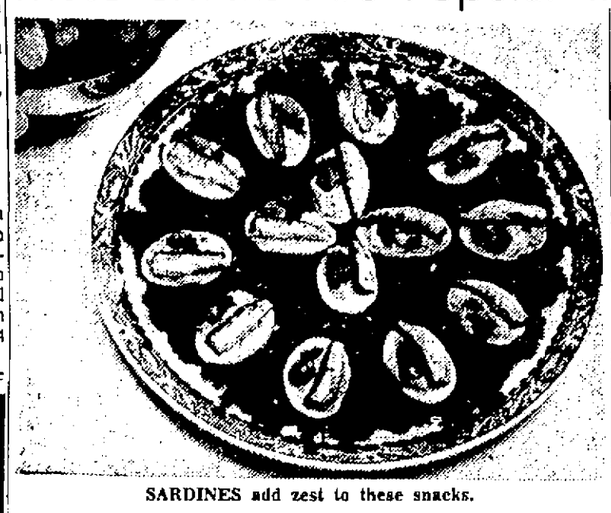
These Snacks Are Popular In Norway



SARDINES add zest to these snacks.

By GAYNOR MADDOX

The Norwegians are friendly and active people given to hearty eating, according to Ted Saucier, American gourmet and publicist, who spends much time in Norway. "In the cities, like Oslo, the capital, Bergen and also in Stavanger, center of the fishing industry, they begin work at eight in the morning after a hefty breakfast, eat a substantial sandwich during their ½-hour lunch period, and knock off work at 3:30 in the afternoon. They dine early, around five o'clock and they really dine."

Saucier, no mean eater himself, brings us these snack ideas from his staunch Norwegian friends, using sardines from the cold mineral waters of their fjords.

Norway Stuffed Eggs
(24 halves)

1 doz. medium sized eggs (24 halves)
4 oz. (½ jar) sweet mustard pickle
1 can (3¾ oz.) Norway sardines
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
2 pimentos
Bunch of fresh parsley
Seasoning to taste

Hard cook the eggs for 12 minutes. Cool under water and remove the shells. Cut the eggs in half lengthwise and remove the yolks. Mix the yolks with finely chopped sweet mustard pickle, mayonnaise and one finely chopped pimento. Season to taste. Stuff each egg half with this mixture and top each with a whole Norway sardine. Garnish each with a small sprig of fresh parsley and pimento rosette (to make the rosette, cut pimento into long strips and curl each atop the egg).

Sardine Canapes
(12 to 18 canapes)

6 or 8 slices white bread, toasted
1 small can tomato paste
1 can (3¾ oz.) Norway sardines
1 lemon, cut in half
Parsley
1 small tomato (garnish)

Toast 6 or 8 slices of white bread on both sides. Spread tomato paste over each. With a cookie cutter, cut two crescent shapes out of the center of each toast slice. Top each crescent with a whole Norway sardine and sprinkle with a little lemon juice. Garnish with a small sprig of parsley. Refrigerate until ready to serve.

Veal Rib Has German Flavor

SPECIAL ROAST VEAL RIB has German accent.

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Herr Albert Mueller, member of an exclusive gourmet society of leading chefs, was manager of the Lowenbrau Gardens at New York's World's Fair last season. Wearing the gold chain of the "Confrerie de la Chaine des Rotisseurs de Paris," our German host entertained us in the 18th century Bavarian garden.

Yes, of course there was beer. But the main course was an amazing platter of veal rib, garnished with glazed apricots and spiced crabapples.

GEROESTETE KALBSRIPPE MIT FRUECHTEN GARNIERT

Roast Rib of Veal with candied fruits
(6 to 8 servings)

1 five-pound whole rib of veal
3 tablespoons olive oil
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon thyme
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
Salt and pepper to taste
Glazed apricots
Spiced crab apples

Preheat oven to 300 degrees. Combine olive oil, lemon juice, thyme and garlic with salt and pepper. Rub the mixture into the meat. Place roast, with fat side up, on a rack in a shallow open pan. Roast about three hours and twenty minutes, or 30 to 35 minutes per pound. When meat is done, remove to heated platter. Garnish with apricots, crab apples and parsley.

BRAUNE SOSSE
Brown Sauce
(6 to 8 servings)

2 cups warm water
¼ cup heavy cream
¼ cup flour
2 tablespoons butter
¼ teaspoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons brandy (optional)
Salt and pepper to taste

Pour off clear fat in roasting pan. Add 1 cup warm water to remaining drippings and stir until all brown bits are loosened. Gradually add flour, stirring with large spoon, until smooth and brown. Add remaining water, heavy cream, butter, lemon juice, brandy and salt and pepper to taste. Bring mixture to boiling point over medium heat; cook stirring well, until slightly thickened.

Steamed Puddings Good Contributions

Steamed puddings, served after a soup and salad supper, make a hearty contribution. To top the pudding, you might like to add minced preserved ginger to a regular hard sauce.

COOK'S TOUR

By JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI)—The oldest fruit in history is, in one form, typically American. It is the ripe olive, which is grown commercially on a large scale only in America and principally in California.

Oolives are believed to have been grown first on the island of Crete about 3500 B.C. But some historians say they originated in Syria, from which they spread westward along the Mediterranean coast of southern Europe and, eventually, to the New World.

The California Olive Association says that some historians think olive trees first were planted in America in 1560 in what now is the southeastern United States.

But others say the first groves were started in 1769 with seeds or cuttings brought from Mexico to Mission San Diego by Father Junipero Serra, who founded the California missions. The variety of olives that his planting produced was named mission, and about half the California olives grown now are of that variety.

Olives Are Ripened

The early California olives were used mainly for oil until around the turn of the 19th century, when it was discovered that olives could be fully ripened before curing.

The late Mrs. Freda Ehman, of Oroville, Calif., is believed to have been the first canner of the olive. She established a cannery at Oroville in 1897, using a curing recipe obtained from the University of California. The firm she founded still is in business, one of fifteen in the state.

Although the olives are known primarily as a snack food, their food value is so high that they are among the fruits allocated in the national school lunch program. As ingredients, they're used in such main dishes as lasagne, tamale casserole, cabbage salad and oven-baked rice.

Two Basic Types

Ripe olives come n two basic types. Those called ripe have been treated and oxidized to produce a typical dark brown to black color. Green ripe olives, which are not oxidized in processing, range in color from green-yellow or yellow-green to mottled tan or brown. The color depends on the maturity of the fruit and each canner's individual preference.

Ripe olives are 19 per cent fruit oil, but they're fairly low in calories. One hundred grams—about 15 small ones or seven very large ones—contain 163 calories. Ripe olives also contain Vitamin A, riboflavin, thiamin, calcium and iron.

Ripe olives are especially plentiful now, with the new crop forecast at three-million cases, added to one million cases remaining from the 1963-64 crop.

OLIVE-RICE STUFFING

Olive rice stuffing is delicious in pork chops, spareribs, turkey or chicken.

Stir 1 cup of raw brown rice and 1 teaspoon of salt into 2¼ cups of boiling water. Cover and cook slowly 30 minutes.

Cut 1½ cups of pitted ripe olives into large pieces. Toss with cooked rice, ¼ cup of melted butter or margarine, ½ cup of finely chopped onion, ⅛ teaspoon of pepper, ¼ teaspoon of crushed savory, and 3 tablespoons of sherry. Makes 1 quart enough for a 4-pound bird.

Convenient Syrup Made In Advance

Like to have sugar syrup on hand for sweeting cold drinks? Stir a cup of sugar and ½ cup water together over low heat until the sugar dissolves, then boil for 5 minutes. Cool and then refrigerate in a covered container.

Quick Trick With Macaroni

Macaroni and cheese takes on a delightful new flavor when served with a topping of herbed tomato slices. Here's how Pierre Franey, renowned executive chef of the Howard Johnson's kitchens, does it: while individual trays of his frozen macaroni and cheese are heating to bubbling in the oven, he gently fries slices of tomatoes in butter, sprinkling each with dashes of oregano, thyme and salt, continues cooking until the macaroni is ready to come from the oven when the tomatoes are placed over the top of each serving. The tomato blends with the macaroni sauce giving it a zestful, herby flavor.

Plastic Starch

To remove a "cooked on" residue of permanent plastic starch, wipe an electric iron (after disconnecting and letting it cool) with rubbing alcohol. Follow up by sudsing it off, then wipe with a clean damp cloth before reuse.

Perfect Night At Foul Line Helps Campers Win 8th

Fort Hill Upsets Bruce, Suder Sparks Valley Over Indians

Beall High's Mountaineers learned last night that you can't stop Steve Vandenberg by fouling him.

Vandenberg, guarded closely all evening and too closely on many whistle-stop occasions, had a perfect 14 for 14 from the foul line to lead Allegany to an easy 79-51 win over the scrappy Beall unit in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League basketball game at Allegany gym.

In other W.M.I. contests, Valley's Black Knights won their second league game with a 63-44 decision over Mt. Savage, and Fort Hill evened its loop record at 1-1 by pulling a mild upset over Bruce, 66-63.

Vandenberg's perfect night at the charity line continued Beall's exasperation on Camper hardwoods, stretching to 36 the number of years that the Mountaineers of Frostburg have been beaten at Campobello. It was also the 22nd consecutive win for Chet Payne's Campers over a two-year span and eighth of the season.

Beall High's game plan was nothing new: key on Vandenberg. However, Ebbie Finzel's Mounties played right into Allegany's hands, as the Alco high school All-America candidate had one of the most brilliant nights of his illustrious career in terms of foul goal accuracy.

Bruce Stands Out

The 6'7" Vandenberg scored 50 points to take game honors, while his partner in crime, 6'8" Dave Toey, settled for 21. Allegany's big boys got a lot of help from Dave Bruce, who scored 10 points in addition to turning in some fine passing into the middle and a good floor game.

Nick Edwards led Beall with 16 points. Bruised, battered and bloodied Bob Harper did an excellent job playing the towering Vandenberg in the post before fouling out in the final quarter. Toey of Allegany fouled out, also in the final stanza.

Bill Reed broke loose for 21 points to lead Fort Hill's 66-63 win before 500 fans at Westernport in a game which was tied 18 times.

Jim Mertens added 17 for the Sentinels, while Darrell Merkel had 14 markers. For Bruce, John McIntyre scored 19 points, Butch Biggs had 16, Tom Moran had 15, and John Kinnie had 11.

The score was tied at 2, 4, 6, 20, 22, 24, 26, 30, 35, 37, 39, 43, 45, 49, 51, 53, 55, and 57. Bill Brode's field goal put Fort Hill ahead for good at 59-57.

Larry Suder's 33 points, high for the three-game WMI card, paced Valley to its second league win, as Mt. Savage fell, 63-44, at Lonaconing.

Suder had 15 field goals and 3 for 4 at the foul line. George Shaffer led the visitors with 15 points.

With the score tied at 16-16, Suder stole the ball three straight times as the Indians attempted in-bounds plays and scored six points in seven seconds. Whether this had anything to do with the decision or not, the Indians threw out their stalling tactics in the second half after being behind at intermission, 63-44.

Bill Johnson of Mt. Savage was the only player to foul out of the game.

Cooper Stops Wipperman In Fifth Round

American Floored Twice, Bout Halted

LONDON (UPI)—British Empire heavyweight champion Henry Cooper scored a fifth-round technical knockout over Dick Wipperman of Buffalo, N.Y., Tuesday night after flooring the American twice during the round.

Wipperman was dropped with a left hook midway through the fifth round for a count of three. He rose on shaky legs and Cooper immediately caught him with a right cross.

The Yank managed to get to his feet by the time the count had reached nine, but was unable to defend himself, and referee Jack Hart immediately waved Cooper away. The time was 1:30.

Cooper's savage fifth - round attack probably saved him from defeat, for at the time he was bleeding from cuts above and below the left eye and from one above his right eye. Wipperman was cut over the right eye.

Cooper scaled 189½ pounds against 205½ for Wipperman, who also had a three - inch height advantage.

In his last outing Cooper was decisioned in 10 rounds by Californian Roger Rischer. He fought so badly then that this was make-or-break bout. But the 5,500 fans in the Albert Hall were satisfied and cheered him from the ring.

The victory was Cooper's 19th inside the distance and 30th in 40 bouts. Wipperman, who had never previously been stopped, has now lost six times in 32 pro starts.

Cooper's victory was the third by a British champion. Earlier in the evening middleweight champion Wally Swift collected a suspected broken jaw in decisioning Charlie Austin of Phoenix, Ariz., in 10 rounds. Then light-heavyweight champion Chic Calderwood beat Otha Brown, Miami, Fla., when Brown failed to come out for the ninth round because of a badly cut left eye.

NOSE FOR NEWS—Bill Stafford, Yankee pitcher, has a nose for news here as he recuperates from surgery at a New York hospital and gets an assist in reading a letter by his wife Janice.

NCAA Toughens Stand On Pro Grid Relations

League Bosses Give Proposals Qualified Support

By BO BGREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association took a strong stand on its relations with professional football Tuesday and the commissioners of the two major pro leagues immediately issued statements of qualified support.

In New York, Pete Rozelle, National Football League commissioner, issued an order to his 14 teams prohibiting them from signing college players until after the player had completed all his eligibility, including post-season bowl games.

American Football League Commissioner Joe Foss praised the NCAA report in Chicago and said he is "confident something can be worked out that will be acceptable to the NCAA and all concerned."

Foss said the NCAA report, made by Louisiana State Athletic Director Jim Corbett, chairman of the group's Pro-Relations Committee, will be presented to the AFL owners meeting in Houston this weekend.

Foss said it would be premature to make a full statement on the report until he can go over it with the AFL owners.

Would Bar Coach-Scouts

The premature signing of players was only one point in the NCAA report, but was the only one on which Foss and Rozelle had statements.

The report, prompted by the signing of players before their teams were scheduled to compete in bowl games, calls for an end to the practice of college coaches serving as scouts and agents for the pros.

Corbett candidly admitted that "we may have a couple of hundred assistant coaches throughout the country involved with the pros."

His report asked that the NCAA "deal forthrightly with this reprehensible practice without delay."

The recommendation asked:

1. The draft of the respective leagues be held after the last NCAA certified post-season game;

2. That the pros do away with future draft picks;

3. That the pros "insist that no member club under any circumstances at any time in the future be permitted to sign a college player" before his eligibility has been completed.

Report Sent To Council

4. That any one having information regarding violations place such information in the hands of the NCAA.

Corbett said the recommendations were made after conferences with Rozelle and Foss.

The recommendation next will go to the NCAA Council, the group's policy-making body, for action and is expected to be presented at the NCAA's 1966 convention.

Corbett emphasized, however, that while the NCAA could put no teeth in the proposal until after the next football season, individual colleges can and should take action immediately.

He said, as an athletic director, that if any assistant coach on his staff were found guilty of scouting or recruiting for the pros that man would lose his job.

Corbett said his committee had the names of eight coaches who were paid by the pros for scouting and recruiting and said, "there may be a couple of hundred more."

Pete Rozelle Under Fire

NFL Players Want Brown As Czar

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bernie Parrish, vice president of the National Football League Players Association, said Tuesday he would try to line up players' support to replace NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle with Paul Brown, former Cleveland Browns head coach.

Rozelle was signed in 1962 to a five-year contract by the 14 NFL owners. The commissioner can only be replaced by the owners' votes.

Brown also is listed as a vice president of the Cleveland club and receives an estimated $80,000 a year on a contract which still has four years to run. He is now living in La Jolla, Calif.

Parrish, Cleveland Browns defensive back, made his remarks in a telephone interview with Chuck Heaton of the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Parrish said Rozelle "doesn't represent us (the players) as we feel we should be represented." He specifically pointed out the lack of a player representative on the league pension committee.

In New York, Rozelle declined comment on Parrish's announcement.

NFL Pledges Not To Sign Collegians Prematurely

Will Keep Hands Off Players Until They Complete Schedules

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League promised Tuesday to keep hands off college football players until they have completed their schedules, including post-season bowl games.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle issued a formal statement of policy in New York after bitter protests of premature and undated contract signings from athletic officials of the nation's colleges, meeting in Chicago.

Rozelle's Statement

"No player will be signed to a contract or any form of document of intent, directly or through an agent, until after completion of all his team's football games, including bowl contests," Rozelle said.

Commissioner Joe Foss of the American Football League said in Chicago he was "confident something can be worked out that will be acceptable to the NCAA and all concerned."

He said an NCAA official's recommendation that prodrafts be delayed until after post-season games are played will be presented to the AFL owners meeting in Houston this weekend.

The furore followed the signing and ultimate suspension of four Oklahoma players before the Jan. 2 Gator Bowl game against Florida State.

The players involved were tackle Ralph Neely, fullback Jim Grisham, flanker back Lance Rentzel and end Wes Skidgel.

Neely signed a four-year contract with Houston of the AFL on Dec. 1. The other three signed with the NFL Minnesota Vikings. Later Neely also signed with Dallas of the NFL.

The contracts were not dated. The players said at the time that they had been told they could sign without jeopardizing their eligibility.

Banned From Game

They were banned from the Gator Bowl on the eve of the game in Jacksonville, Fla.

Earlier a Georgia tackle, Jim Wilson, disclosed that he had signed with the Boston Patriots of the AFL before completing his eligibility. He later signed with the San Francisco 49ers of the NFL.

In Chicago, at the annual meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, Jim Corbett, athletic director of Louisiana State and chairman of the NCAA pro relations committee, said it's possible a couple of hundred assistant coaches may be on the pros' payroll as scouts.

He submitted a recommendation, urging that the pro drafts be delayed until after the post-season games and that the pros do away with future draft picks. He also demanded that no pro club be allowed to sign a college player until his eligibility was completed.

14 To Sign Pledge

Rozelle said the pledge will be put into writing, signed by the 14 NFL clubs and the commissioner and sent to the appropriate college authorities.

"I will be further implemented by appropriate language providing for disciplinary measures to be placed in the league constitution at the annual meeting to be held next month," the commissioner added.

Clay Will Be Given Checkup In Boston

BOSTON (AP)—Cassius Clay "sneaked into town" Tuesday in a 40-passenger red and white bus, with foot-high lettering on each side reading "World's Heavyweight Champion."

Clay was here to have a physical checkup Wednesday at Boston City hospital, where he underwent a hernia operation Nov. 13, three days before his scheduled title defense against Sonny Liston.

Clay said he thinks he is well enough to resume light training but he wants the approval of his surgeon, Dr. William McDermott.

Clay told newsmen he is ready to fight Liston "as soon as he gets out of jail," a reference to Liston's troubles with the law in Denver.

In Memoriam

Happy memories of my brothers, Benjamin L. and Basil M. Moreland, who died on January 12 and 13th.
What joy, what bliss: Beyond the Sunset
There to be with (God) our Father
Our friends and loved ones gone before
To meet them on the golden shore
But He who died on Calvary's brow
Soon will come in clouds of glory
To take us home to be with him
In that fair haven, beside the Crystal sea.
Sadly Missed by Sister, Mrs. John R. Llewellyn

In loving memory of our beloved husband and father, Harness Flanagan, who passed away one year ago January 13, 1964.
Broken is the family circle
Our dear one is passed away
Passed from earth and earthly darkness
Into bright and perfect day.
But we all must cease to languish
For the grave of him we love
Strive to be prepared to meet him.
In the better above.
Sadly Missed by Wife and Family

League Briefs Legislators On 1965 Aims

42 Area Leaders Attend Conference

Legislative proposals of the Maryland Municipal League were outlined to area legislators at a meeting of the Western Maryland region of the League, held last night in the Clarysville Inn.

Mayor Earl D. Chaney, area vice president, presided at the meeting attended by more than 40 municipal officials and legislators from Allegany and Garrett counties.

Represented were Westernport, Barton, Luke, Frostburg, Oakland, Grantsville, Lonaconing, Kitzmiller and Cumberland.

Alan Beals, College Park, executive secretary, briefed the legislators on the principal items in the 1965 legislative program. It includes:

Legislation empowering municipalities to get rid of abandoned and unwanted automobiles and other vehicles.

That municipalities be given the authority to conduct tax sales when the county treasurer or collector fails to act within 30 days after notice from the municipality.

That a law be passed to require that all municipalities, regardless of size, have financial records audited each year.

That exemptions from paying state gasoline taxes now held by several organizations be extended to all political subdivisions.

That the General Assembly defer any drastic fiscal action until the Commission on State and County Finance presents its final report next year.

The League is also asking legislation which would transfer to political subdivisions ⅔ of the federal monies received by Maryland under the Land and Water Conservation Act, designed to provide urgently needed outdoor recreation areas and facilities.

Members of the General Assembly, Mr. Beals reported, have been very cooperative and have been willing to listen to the League's legislative proposals.

Discuss Legislative Proposals

Two Board Members Plan To Attend Md. Conference

At least two members of the Allegany County Board of Education are planning to attend the State Conference on Education to be held at the Lord Baltimore Hotel on January 28 and 29.

J. Goodloe Jackson, president of the county board, and Mrs. George M. Young, informed Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster at yesterday's meeting of the board that they plan to attend the two-day conference in Baltimore. Mrs. Young will serve as leader of one of the panels.

T. Donald Shires and Mrs. May B. Bolt, other board members at yesterday's meeting, were both uncertain of their plans. Kenneth R. Malcolm, the fifth member of the board, was not present at yesterday's board meeting.

Mr. Webster also said yesterday that he plans to attend the conference. He also has invited Mrs. Lester B. Reed, president of the county PTA council, to select a group of PTA members from Allegany County to attend the conference.

During the luncheon meeting starting at noon January 28, William L. Wilson of Cumberland, a member of the State Board of Education, will extend greetings. An address on "The Impact of Change in Education" will be delivered at the luncheon meeting by Dr. James A. Sensenbaugh, state superintendent of schools.

Hyman Bookbinder of the Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington, will be the principal speaker at the dinner meeting at 6 p.m. January 21.

The conference will close at a luncheon meeting on Friday, July 22.

Optometrists Will Attend State Session

Several local and area optometrists are planning to attend a joint educational seminar to be held February 6-7 at Loyola College in Baltimore.

The two-day session will feature both educational and technical materials about the topic, "Learning More About Learning," according to Dr. Bernard Saltysiak, Parkville, president of the Maryland Optometric Association, and Dr. Cyril M. Witte, chairman of the Department of Education of Loyola Evening College and Graduate Division.

Planning to attend from this area are Dr. Ethel Dantzic and Dr. William S. Firey of Cumberland, and Dr. James A. Poland, Frostburg. Dr. Poland is president of the Western Maryland Optometric Society, Dr. Dantzic is secretary, and Dr. Firey, treasurer.

Highlights of the Saturday session will include talks by Dr. Walter Waetjen, director of the Bureau of Educational Research and Field Services of the University of Maryland; Dr. John Straff, director of Visual Research, Gesell Institute of Child Development, New Haven, Conn., and Dr. Gertrude Justison, Special Educational Department, Howard University, Washington.

Dr. Manfred Sklar, Catonsville, chairman of the state education committee for Maryland optometrists, said the event will bring together practicing optometrists, educators and specialists together to learn more about techniques, new methods, philosophies and programming.

The final session will be devoted to lectures instructing professional men to cooperate between education, optometry and the psychology of both.

Principals Hear Reports At Meeting

A number of reports were discussed at a meeting of the Allegany County high school principals yesterday at the Board of Education office, according to Assistant Superintendent of Schools Richard T. Rizer.

J. D. Lonnholm, supervisor of vocational, industrial and adult education, reported on the Economic Opportunity Act programs which may benefit vocational education.

Dr. Wayne W. Hill, principal of Fort Hill High School, and Dr. W. Ardell Haines, principal of Allegany High School, discussed the programs at their schools and the effect upon them of moving the seventh and eighth grades into the new Washington and Braddock junior high schools in September.

Dr. Robert J. Shockley, assistant superintendent for curriculum, discussed the new English and social studies programs developed as a result of the workshops last summer at Parkside School in LaVale.

Jack A. Petry, supervisor of high schools, spoke about the selection of textbooks and teaching materials resulting from the changes in English and social studies curriculums.

Other members of the supervisory staff who attended yesterday's meeting included Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster, LaVern J. Hahn, supervisor of music education; Theodore P. Foote, supervisor of art education; Miss Ruth C. McColly, supervisor of home economics education; Robert E. Pence, supervisor of physical education; Miss Esther M. Carter and Glenn U. Hanna, visiting teachers.

Other principals who attended included Earl F. Brain, Beall Elementary; Joseph H. Pellerzi, Beall High; James H. White, Bruce High; Oberlin T. Chaney, Cresaptown; James W. Spitznas, Flintstone; Kendrick Y. Hodgdon, Mt. Savage; John R. McVicker, Oldtown; Paul D. Beable, Valley.

Missionary To China Will Speak Tonight

Miss Elsie Stewart, a missionary to China, will be guest speaker tonight during a service at the Flintstone Assembly of God Church.

Rev. Albert L. Ogden, pastor, said the service which is open to the public will begin at 7:30 p.m.

He said the guest speaker will show slides on China in conjunction with her talk in which she will explain her work as a missionary. She is in the United States on leave and will return to the mission fields in China, according to the pastor, who said there will be a program of church music.

Skyway Route Needed, Says SRC Official

Urges Adoption Of 'Appalachia'

Passage of the Appalachian Bill was urged here recently by a spokesman for John B. Funk, chairman-director of the Maryland State Roads Commission, saying plans of the SRC for dualization of U.S. Route 40 and other Western Maryland highways would be speeded by federal funds available through the federal program.

Edward J. Birrane Jr., speaking on behalf of Mr. Funk, told the Western Maryland delegation that the State Roads Commission for many years has been acutely aware of the need for a modern freeway built to Interstate specifications running through Western Maryland and penetrating the fartherest reaches of Garrett County.

"When the Interstate program was inaugurated in 1956 we fought for this expressway, citing the obvious benefits which would accrue to the Westermost counties, he said, adding:

"Unfortunately, stronger forces to the North succeeded in pulling Interstate 70 into our neighboring State at Hancock.

"We are now engaged in the construction of the freeway route, but we are not unmindful of the fact that a part of our State has been sheared of participation in the mammoth 41,000-mile system of National Interstate and Defense highways.

"We do not believe this situation should be allowed to continue.

"Western Maryland needs its mountain Skyway. This road would open Garrett and Allegany Counties to the urban markets of the east, bringing in much needed commerce and industry.

"In addition, this region is witnessing unparalleled growth each year in the recreation field. Thousands of tourists each spring and summer flock to our state parks and forests to escape the hustle and bustle of urban living.

"All this proves the need for dualization of Route 40 throughout Maryland.

"To this end, the State Roads Commission has moved forward with this project despite its exclusion from the Interstate system and its 90 per cent construction cost reimbursement.

"Plans are completed and we are pushing forward with right of way acquisition for the route. It is our intention to answer our citizens evenolual use of this expressway. Some parts of it are already programmed.

"It is unfortunate that budgetary restrictions have precluded scheduling the entire route as a dual facility at this time under the State program. In some instances it has become necessary to move ahead with the two-lane highway, with pull-lanes, all the while keeping in mind the evenual dualization of the entire road when financial conditions permit, and the necessary approval is obtained from county officials.

Answer Filed To Request

State's Attorney James S. Getty has filed an answer in Allegany County Circuit Court to a petition of two inmates of Patuxent Institution who are requesting a review under the Uniform Post Conviction Procedure Act.

The two inmates, John Davis Lease and John Beeman, both of the Lonaconing area, were tried in Circuit Court in July 1963 on charges of breaking and entering and were given terms in the Maryland Institution for Men with an order that they be examined at Patuxent Institution.

Beeman was given a five-year term in the Maryland Institution and Lease a three-year term, and later both men were committed to Patuxent Institution. Both were given hearings in February 1964 in Circuit Court here, were found to be defective delinquents and were returned to Patuxent Institution.

In his answer to the request by the two inmates, Mr. Getty told the court that neither man made an effort to appeal his sentence within the prescribed time, and that neither can use the Post Conviction Procedure Act as a vehicle to obtain a delayed appeal.

Mr. Getty said copies of his answer to the request also were sent to the two inmates.

Center City UR Plan Will Be Reviewed

Board Will Act On Application

Directors of the Cumberland Urban Renewal Agency will meet today at noon in the CURA office to review and approve plans for the Center City general neighborhood renewal program.

Karl W. Bachman, chairman, will preside at the meeting when R. Jackson Seay, of the Pittsburgh firm of Simonds and Simonds, will deliver and analyze the documents needed for the submission of the application to the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

The application outlines the plans of the local agency for rehabilitating, over a 10-year period, an area bounded on the east by the B & O tracks, on the west by Wills Creek, to the north by the B & O Viaduct and on the south by Williams Street.

The big program, commonly known as the GNRP, was approved Monday by the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, which noted that the plans fit in with the Comprehensive Development plan of the City of Cumberland.

The planning unit also gave its stamp of approval to CURA's plans for the George Street renewal project, the first phase of the GNRP.

William F. DeMare, director of the agency, plans to deliver the GNRP plans and documents to the HHFA regional office in Philadelphia Thursday or Friday.

The agency wants to get the plans into the hands of the HHFA staff as soon as possible so agency chiefs there will have time to study the application before January 21, when a review meeting has been scheduled in Philadelphia.

Representing CURA at that meeting will be Mr. Bachman, Mr. DeMare, Wayland R. Smith, assistant director, and C. William Gilchrist, attorney for the agency.

The agency hopes at that meeting to secure approval of the Center City and George Street plans, so both can be forwarded to Washington for final approval.

Mt. Royal Sixth Graders Get Invitation To Frederick County Outdoor Class

Sixth graders from Mt. Royal have been selected to attend the Frederick County Outdoor School for the first week in June, according to Dr. Robert J. Shockley, assistant superintendent of schools for curriculum.

Dr. Shockley and Robert E. Pence, county supervisor of physical education, appeared before the County Board of Education at its December 15 meeting. At that time the board agreed to permit one sixth grade class to attend the outdoor school for one week as a "pilot study."

After checking the various sixth grade classes it was decided to invite the Mt. Royal group to attend.

John B. Elliott, now in his eighth year as a sixth grade teacher at Mt. Royal, has agreed to accompany the youngsters to Frederick County for the week of outdoor study. Mr. Elliott has 34 boys and girls in his room and he indicated yesterday that virtually all of the parents have approved the plan.

There also are six sixth graders in the combined fifth and sixth grade room of Arthur E. Isom at Mt. Royal and they also have been invited to spend the week in Frederick County.

The 40 boys and girls will have a chance to study first hand the advantages of outdoor education. Dr. Shockley and Mr. Pence indicated last month that the success of this experimental group may determine whether a similar outdoor school will be established for the use of all Allegany County students.

Each child will have to pay $10 to remain in Frederick County for the full week but that will cover transportation and food. Parents must be willing and able to pay the $10 in each case.

Roy Okun, who directs the outdoor school, will be invited to come to Cumberland to discuss the program.

Savage River Strip Mining Permit Delayed

Forests And Parks Unit Tables Action

BALTIMORE (AP) — The State Commission of Forests and Parks withheld Tuesday a permit for strip mining of coal on 9,000 acres in the Savage River State Forest in Garrett County.

The five-member board voted unanimously for a motion by Howard I. Scaggs, vice chairman, to withhold approval until "such time that more information is available."

Two members of the Board of Public Works, Gov. Tawes and treasurer John A. Luetkemeyer, had given preliminary approval of the permit Dec. 14. The other board member, comptroller Louis Goldstein, was opposed and he took the same stand before the forests commission which had final say.

Delaware Firm Involved

The Bortz Coal Co., a Delaware corporation with headquarters in Uniontown, Pa., had sought permission to scrape off the top of the park land in order to reach underlying coal.

It had no representative at the meeting of the forests commission. William C. Walsh, Cumberland lawyer, had represented it before the Board of Public Works.

Before making his withholding motion, Scaggs said "although we cannot forget the bleak economic conditions of Garrett County, the basic idea of the commission includes the preservation of forests and parks."

Goldstein, too, asked that the coal company application "be held in abeyance until the entire matter can be resolved after thorough study of the many problems involved."

He also said he felt that lands owned by the state "were held in trust for all citizens."

The county commissioners of Garrett and its delegation to the Maryland Legislature had urged issuance of the permit to boost the area's economy. The director of the state bureau of mines, Carl A. Schell, also had endorsed it.

Would Hire 50 To Start

The coal company had said it would employ 50 persons at the outset if allowed to strip the coal from the state land and might provide work for as many as 200.

The mineral rights under the state park are owned by the George's Creek Coal and Land Company, a Maryland corporation.

But it can't reach the coal by the surface stripping method, as contrasted with the tunnel mining system, unless the state grants permission.

A 1961 survey estimated that more than 7 million tons of coal might be taken out of the area.

The Maryland law requires that a strip miner must post a bond of $500 for each acre of land in Garrett County to guarantee he will refill and replant it.

Del. Samuel R. Dillon, D-Washington, has said he will propose that the legislature stiffen the guarantees for restoring stripped land.

Former Midland Woman Is Hurt As Cars Crash

The 29-year-old daughter of a Midland couple was hospitalized Sunday afternoon in a two-car accident just west of Hagerstown on U.S. Route 40.

Mrs. Mary Catherine Monte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. DeSales Maher, suffered a fractured pelvis in the accident and was admitted to Washington County Hospital in Hagerstown, where her condition is reported as "satisfactory."

Her husband, Joseph A. Monte, who teaches in Walter Einstein High School near Bethesda, was treated at the hospital and released following the two-car accident about 3 p.m. Sunday.

Members of a New York family traveling in the other car involved in the accident were treated at the hospital and released.

Mr. and Mrs. Monte, who had been visiting in Midland over the weekend, were en route to their home in Bethesda when the accident occurred.

They had left their six-month-old daughter, Anne, with her grandparents at Midland and decided to return to Bethesda during a snowstorm.

The Monte car reportedly hit an icy spot on the highway, went into a skid, and collided with the car from New York, which was westbound.

Everett Man Faces Federal Cattle Charge

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — An information was filed in federal court here Tuesday charging J. Ellis Beegle of Everett RD 1 in Bedford County with illegal transportation of cattle from Moorefield, W. Va., to Everett.

The complaint was brought by the U.S. attorney's office and accused Beegle of violating U.S. Agriculture Department regulations. The specific charge was that Beegle failed on two separate occasions to have certificates stating that he was transporting cattle that did not have brucellosis, a contagious disease among cattle.

The complaint asserted that Beegle last July 1 moved 30 head of cattle from Moorefield to Everett and transported 10 additional head 14 days later without proper health clearance for the animals.

School Board Takes Routine Actions Here

Mrs. Whitworth Gets Ratification

Ratification of the appointment of Mrs. Florence R. Whitworth of LaVale as county supervisor of cafeterias was one of a number of routine matters handled at yesterday's meeting of the Allegany County Board of Education.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster announced at yesterday's meeting that he had polled the five board members last week and all had agreed to her appointment as a successor to Mrs. Gladys M. Eaton, who died December 7. Mrs. Whitworth had been teaching home economics at Fort Hill High School.

Mrs. Eleanor G. Weagly, state supervisor of school lunch program, has been in Cumberland since Mrs. Whitworth assumed her duties Monday. She expects to leave today.

Letter Of Thanks

Mr. Webster read to the board members yesterday a letter of thanks from Mrs. Carole Mendelsohn of Hagerstown, Mrs. Eaton's daughter, for the funeral flowers sent by the board and the resolutions adopted by the board at its December 15 meeting.

The board also discussed briefly a questionnaire sent by the National School Boards Association asking for an expression of the local board's policy on four specific questions. The first involved the matter of separation of church and state. Board members agreed that no written policy on this question ever had been adopted although the board chooses to conform to the policy as set forth in the recent decisions of the U. S. Supreme Court.

Board members agreed that the board does not have a policy on financing public education modeled on the state-wide policy. The local board also agreed that it has a policy on the relationship of teachers, superintendent and board members. On the matter of the role of the federal government in education, the board has no specific policy. The national group is in favor of these forms of federal aid to education now in effect but does not want the program expanded.

Representatives of the Silver Spring architectural firm of Johannes and Murray will be in the county today to present preliminary plans for the new Beall Elementary School in Frostburg and to reach some conclusion on the site for the new school.

Mr. Webster read to the board members a letter from Ross F. Shaw of Oldtown endorsing the board's selection of the names of Washington and Braddock for the two new junior high schools in Cumberland, but reminding the board not to forget the great work done in this area by Col. Thomas Cresap, one of the first white settlers.

Three Appointed

Approval was given to the appointment of three new teachers. One of them, Mrs. Lorene G. Nelms, assumed her duties Monday as home economics teacher at Fort Hill, filling the vacancy caused by the promotion of Mrs. Whitworth. Miss M. Carol McKenzie will assume duties January 25 as third grade teacher at Beall Elementary School, filling the vacancy created by the retirement of Mrs. Margaret H. Walsh. She will not conclude her studies at Frostburg State College until January 23.

The third new teacher whose contract was approved yesterday was Mrs. Betty G. Workman, who will teach English at Allegany High School. She will assume duties February 1 after Mrs. Gail K. Dawson begins her leave of absence.

Mr. Webster also told the board members that he will attend a state conference on educational television scheduled for Hagerstown January 21 and 22. This conference has been called by Dr. James A. Sensenbaugh, state superintendent of public schools.

The board yesterday also discussed briefly a form sent by Dr. Sensenbaugh in which the board was supposed to provide an assurance of compliance with the Civil Rights Act insofar as it applies to the integration of public schools. Mr. Webster reminded the board members that there has been complete integration of public schools in Allegany County for at least six years.

The old Carver School on Frederick Street was closed for two years before it was reopened as Allegany Community College. The college is now in its fourth year of operations.

Next meeting of the County Board of Education will be held February 23. The board agreed to meet at 1:30 p.m. that day and visit the new Washington and Braddock junior high schools before getting down to business.
